

U. S. REPLIES TO CRITICS ON EAST PARLEY

America Never Intended to Take Hand In Spoils
After War

TO KEEP OUT OF DISPUTES

Country Intended Mandates As Trusteeship Only—Not Commission To Rule

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — Responsibility and risks, mandates and territorial spoils equality of commercial opportunity and the policy of the United States in the Near East were outlined by one of the spokesmen of the administration in a way that would have done the European powers gathered at Lausanne a great deal of good to hear.

It all developed from the constant flow of cable dispatches from Europe criticizing the American government for instructing Ambassador Child of Italy to get up in open meeting and declare American desires in the Near East. The dispatches reflected a feeling of resentment that America should be unwilling to take any risks in policing Europe or in supervising the so-called mandated regions and yet should want an equal share of commercial opportunities.

COULDN'T ANSWER

Naturally the responsible authorities here couldn't be quoted as they were dealing with anonymous comment received through the press but there is no doubt here that the European correspondents reflected accurately the viewpoints of the diplomats abroad.

Two fallacies, it was explained by the spokesmen here of the government, seem to exist in the European mind. One is that because the United States didn't accept a mandate in Armenia she was not entitled to any of the advantages which other powers will enjoy in the mandated regions.
This prompted the reply here that perhaps the European governments have forgotten the original idea of a mandate. It was to be a trusteeship.
Possibly if the United States hadn't come into the war at the crucial moment these same territories would today be German provinces. The Allies disclaimed any idea of selfishness or annexation in pursuing the war and it was the suggestion of the American peace commission that the territories taken from Germany should belong jointly to all the victors and that the victorious nations should be selected to federal and administer those lands under a charter granted by all and periodically supervised.

The United States was and is a charter member of the group of victors and any nation which holds a mandate is merely a trustee. One of the chief arguments in favor of the mandate system was that it would preserve equality and prevent discrimination. The United States government today is merely rising up to remind the powers that America simply wants equality. The question of whether America has refused to undertake any responsibility by declining a mandate is not pertinent because it was specifically provided that mandates were not to be punitive.
American public opinion didn't support the acceptance of the only mandate offered America, namely that of Armenia, but the opinion of other countries has similarly been ranged against taking other mandates too.

DOESN'T CARE TO MIX

The other fallacy which has given rise to criticism of America in the Lausanne conference on Near Eastern affairs has been the idea that the United States absolved herself from all responsibilities in Europe and hence was not entitled to equal consideration or, to put it another way, the nation which had all the bother and risk of administering a mandate was entitled to special privileges.
That is exactly opposite to what the Wilson administration and secretaries of state preceding Mr. Hughes have understood to be the object of mandates. As for undertaking responsibilities the department of state feels that it is merely following a century of precedents in declining to be a party to boundary disputes in Europe.
America under the Wilson administration refused to be a party to the negotiations of a peace treaty with Turkey because war had not been declared with the Ottoman empire and because it was felt boundary lines were strictly a European matter. The protection of American rights, however, under historic treaties before the war has not been forfeited through that act and the European governments will find themselves much mistaken if they believe that because the United States government isn't taking part in the policing of Europe that it will waive any of the rights which it possessed before the European war or which it has derived as a result of the greatest responsibility ever taken by the American nation—assistance in 1917 and 1918 in making possible a triumph instead of possible defeat. The formula of American cooperation with Europe since the war may be a matter of controversy but the rights possessed by virtue of the armistice and American aid to the Allies will not be yielded in the meantime.

Lausanne, Mich.—Petitions to place on the ballots at Michigan's spring election a constitutional amendment that would have the effect of abolishing private schools, were filed.

BRITAIN THREATENS BREAK WITH GREECE

Girl Admits Sending Poison Candy To Neighbor

SAYS POISON WAS GIVEN TO WRONG WOMAN

Murder Charge is Preferred Against Girl Who Slew Mother of Eight Children

One of the most ghastly murder mysteries in the history of Wisconsin was cleared up Monday evening when Miss Anna Lenz, daughter of Ray Lenz, a wealthy farmer of Brotherhood, near Chilton, broke down after six hours of questioning and confessed she had sent the poison candy which killed Mrs. Frank Schneider a neighbor five days after the birth of the slain woman's baby.
Miss Lenz declared she had intended the candy for Mrs. Henry Schneider, a sister-in-law of the dead woman, and did not learn of her mistake until she heard that Mrs. Frank Schneider had died.

The man who was largely instrumental in working out the confession from the Lenz girl is J. A. Niles of Fond du Lac United States postal inspector who figured in obtaining a confession last week from Phil and Jack Albright and John McFarland relative to the Dale postoffice robbery.

Local authorities saw Inspector Niles has a peculiar gift for worming out confessions. He uses no third degree methods, it is said, but wins the criminal's confidence and soon has him in tears.

HAS RELATIVES HERE

The dead woman was a sister in law of Mrs. Peter Hemmermann who lives on the Mackville rd. and an aunt of Joseph Hemmermann of 1292 Eighteenth st. Mrs. Hemmermann is a sister of Frank Schneider, the slain woman's husband.

After signing a written confession in the presence of Attorney H. F.
Arps, Inspector Niles and a group of newspaper men, Miss Lenz collapsed and is now in the county jail at Chilton under the care of physicians and guarded by a deputy sheriff. She was arraigned in court at Chilton Tuesday morning on a charge of murder.

STEALS CANDY BOX

Miss Lenz's confession revealed a plot of revenge that was directed at another woman, and the discovery of her fatal error that has led to the death of the wrong person and left eight children motherless, the youngest a baby that was born but five days before the agonizing death of its mother.

According to the confession, the disillusioned farm woman said to be an epileptic and generally known in the community to be "a little queer," took the poisoned candy method to avenge

Mrs. Tiernan No. 2 Fights For Husband

By Associated Press
South Bend, Ind.—With the threads of the domestic affairs of Professor and Mrs. J. P. Tiernan becoming more tangled by many new developments since the start of the Tiernan-Poulin paternity case, the next move of the principals toward restoration of harmony in the household was being watched with interest Tuesday.

Despite the fact that Professor Tiernan announced Monday night that the reconciliation with his first wife was moving along satisfactorily, a dispatch from Marshalltown, Ia. quoted Mrs. Blanche Brimmer Tiernan, the professor's "bride of a day" as saying that she was the latter's wife and was going to live with him. She said she expected Tiernan to arrive at the Iowa city Wednesday.

Whether the professor will carry out his announced intention of dismissing the divorce petition against the first Mrs. Tiernan and have the appeal of the paternity case against Harry Poulin dismissed or whether he will take action to have his marriage to the second Mrs. Tiernan pronounced legal, are steps that remain to be determined by future developments.

LEGALLY WED, CLAIM

Hansell, Ia.—Mrs. Charles H. Hawn, mother of Mrs. Blanche Hawn-Brimmer back here Tuesday from Marshalltown, Ia., where they spent Monday investigating the marital status of Mrs. Brimmer announced that her daughter legally was entitled to wed Professor J. P. Tiernan in their Crown Point, Ind., ceremony last Saturday.

"My daughter never intended to marry Tiernan when she went to Chicago last Thursday night," the mother said. "Tiernan wired her to come to Chicago that day and she went. They had expected to be married at Christmas time, but Tiernan, I believe got excited and the hasty marriage at Crown Point was the result."

"WILL WRITE BOOKS"

The daughter's main idea now is to prove to the world that she is the legal wife of Professor Tiernan, Mrs.
Hawn said. Looking toward that end two motion picture offers have been refused, she said.

She may write books, Mrs. Hawn said, for she "has such a fund of imagination that it is easy for her to produce great numbers of hand written pages in a short time."

The daughter plans to spend several days at the home of her first husband, Floyd Rash, in Marshalltown.
His parents live there and her four year old son Kenneth is with them.

WOMEN ORGANIZE MASKED LEAGUE

Masked women, members of a league in Georgia and through the north are shown here in the regalia of their order which has been patterned after the Ku Klux Klan. This picture shows Mrs. D. N. Gibbs (with the flowers), commander of the order, with six of her staff whose names she refused to disclose. "The country will hear from us from now on," says Mrs. Gibbs, known through Georgia as "Mother" Gibbs.

MRS. HALL IN COURT AS JURY PROBES DEATH

Efforts To Be Made To Keep Widow Away From Grand Jury

By Associated Press
Somerville, N. J.—Mrs. Francis
Stevens Noel Hall, widow of the Rev.
Edward W. Hall, who was slain on Sept. 14 with his choir singer Mrs.
Eleanor R. Mills, appeared Tuesday at the county court house where a grand jury is considering the double murder.

Friends of Mrs. Hall had circulated a petition asking that she be allowed to appear before the grand jury. That body, however, has not indicated its attitude although Special Deputy Attorney General Mott has stated that he would not permit her to appear if it were possible to prevent her.

Mrs. Hall, accompanied by her lawyer T. N. Pfeiffer, and her con-fidente, Miss Sallie Peters, entered the court house dressed in deep black.
She took her seat in the foyer with other witnesses.

With Miss Peters she had left her home early Tuesday and with efforts to conceal her movements, motored to Boundbrook to meet her counsel. She left her home by the back door where her chauffeur was awaiting with her car.

FRANCE PLANS TO SEIZE RUHR 'GOLD' LANDS

Cabinet Meeting Expected To Approve of Plans Drawn Up By Committee

(Special to Post-Crescent)

Paris—The intention of France to "pay her self" in Germany comes before a full meeting of the cabinet Tuesday.

A plan for direct action through the seizure of part of the Ruhr district and absolute control of the French section of the Rhineland which was considered and approved at Monday's meeting of military and civil authorities, will be submitted for approval. There no longer is much faith here in any interallied solution of the reparations question, even though the Brussels conference is held.

This program would be applicable only after Jan. 1, for Germany now has a moratorium until the end of December and the first payment under the existing scheme of reparations now in suspension would be due in the middle of January.

Germany's failure to meet this payment would in the opinion of the French automatically give them the right to act.

France now is ready to "go it alone" acting on the theory that if she ever expects to get anything from Germany she must as the French newspaper say hit Germany hard in the Ruhr her most vulnerable spot.

Members of the cabinet after the meeting refused to discuss the action taken but it is generally believed the plan was approved without opposition as it was drawn Monday at a meeting in which the foremost military and civil authorities participated including President Millerand, Premier Poincare, Marshal Foch and the ministers of finance, war and liberated regions.

Tiger To Purr Peace Note In Chicago Talk

By Associated Press
Chicago—Fresh from a night's rest in the Potter Palmer mansion on Lake Shore drive where the roar of Lake Michigan must have tinged his dreams, with visions of his cottage by the sea in France, Georges Clemeneau was up before the dawn Tuesday working on his third big message to America.

The aged war premier had confided to members of his party that his Chicago address, scheduled for 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in the Auditorium, was to be a "message of peace." It was said that it will be a wholly dif-

WITH THE CHICKENS

Chicago—Georges Clemeneau's secret of longevity with a retention of vitality and endurance that would tax the energies of a man of half his 81 years is eggs.

He ordered eight of them soft boiled for his supper Monday night and ate them. Before retiring for the night he asked for five more soft boiled eggs for breakfast at 5:30 Tuesday morning.

"I am not so very tired," he said. "But I have to keep my schedule, to bed at 5 and up at 4.
I go to bed and get up with the chickens. That is why eggs form my principal diet."

Recent address from those delivered in New York and Boston which he roused Democratic and Republican senators like to attack him and draw a formal statement from the British embassy at Washington.

He refused again to comment on the debate that was waged over him in the senate declaring that he had he had fully answered in Boston the charges of militarism and imperialism and improper use of black troops, carried against him by Senators Hatcher, Borah and others and that he did not want any more controversy with them.

AIDS IN FUSION OF TWO S. S. BODIES

Representatives of the Wisconsin
Sunday School Association and representatives of the 17 denominations included in the national organization which was fused recently with the state association had a meeting Tuesday afternoon at Oshkosh. The Rev.
L. W. Wright represented the Presbyterians of the state at the meeting.
The state association which has been in existence for many years, was fused with a national organization of similar purpose at a recent meeting in New York. The national organization includes practically all of the Protestant denominations. The meeting at Oshkosh was called for the purpose of completing the fusion of the two organizations and to make state plans for the year.

grew out of the accident Sunday evening, in which Philip Kreutzer, Sr. received scalp injuries. He was struck down by Schmidt's car while crossing at a street intersection it is alleged. The case has been continued until Dec. 11. The identity of the man was not known exactly at the time of securing the warrant. A John when Schmidt came to the police station of his own accord.

CABINET MEN DIE DESPITE ENGLISH PLEA

Strong Possibility That England Will Repeat Act With Serbia of 1903

RULETIN

Athens—The six former cabinet officers and army officials convicted of high treason, in connection with the Greek military disaster in Asia Minor, were executed Tuesday.

The execution of the condemned was by shooting. The men executed were former Premiers Gounaris, Pro-topapadakis and Sifontas; M. Theotis, former war minister; M. Baltazis, holder of portfolios in several former cabinets and General Hadjanestis commander of the Greek forces at the time of the Asia Minor military disaster.

A sentence of life imprisonment and degradation was imposed upon Admiral Goudas and General Stratigou.

By Associated Press
London—There is the strongest possibility that Great Britain will break off diplomatic relations with Greece if the death sentence imposed on former Greek cabinet officers are carried out it was stated in official circles Wednesday.

The precedent of such action by the British it was suggested would probably be the break in diplomatic relations with Serbia in 1903, as a result of a murder of Serbian majes ces by revolutionists.

It was pointed out, however, that the sentence given to the former Greek cabinet officers have not yet been carried out and that there still was hope that the Greeks would not take such extreme action.

Early in the trial the British government made representations against possible imposition of the death sentence. London despatches said the British action had been generally resented in Athens and that the recent fall of the Zaimis ministry could be traced directly to the British action.
The trial of several former Greek ministers and military officials, who were charged with high treason as the result of the army's recent defeat by the Turks, began on Nov. 13. The court martial was instituted by a decree of the revolutionary committee after an investigation by a special committee of inquiry had resulted in a report charging treason.

PRESENT UNITED FRONT

Lausanne.—Russia and Turkey working together are expected to make a strong pair at Lausanne and other delegates to the Near East conference are wondering what effect the combination will have. English and French circles show a disposition to reject the demands forwarded by the Russian delegation insisting that Russia be heard not only in the Dardanelles discussion but in all questions on the conference agenda. It is pointed out that Russia has signed a peace treaty with Turkey and that therefore there is no reasonable basis for her demand that she participate in the general deliberations to determine the terms of a settlement between Greece and Turkey on one hand and Turkey and the Allies on the other.

Nevertheless, whatever may be the decision of the conference on the stand taken by the Russians it is apparent that there will be no disposition to shut out Russia. It is recognized that so many problems are part and parcel to a settlement of the strait controversy that Russian participation in this angle of the conference will inevitably make the association of the Moscow delegates with other important questions on the program.

SPIED TODAY

Contributors to "I Spied Today" are heading the injunction to be specific in giving details which will enable readers to identify the time and place of the events they described, but there still is room for improvement. A large number of items were discarded because the writers failed to obtain all the essential facts. In describing automobile accidents or events in which automobiles figure, the license numbers should be obtained and the time and place should be specifically stated. "I Spied" tickets will not be good for admission to the Elite theatre on Thanksgiving day, other holidays and on Sundays. They can be used, however, for the current attraction, which is "The Big Mail" and the show for Friday and Saturday in which Elaine Hammerstein will be featured in "Evidence," another splendid picture.

TURKEY HUNTING IN APPLETON

Turkeys are roosting on Spencer and the birds they have up there are some birds, I'll say. At 7 o'clock this morning when I came down Spencer, there was a big turkey gobbling away as hard as he could. The owner and a group of boys tried to catch him, but that was when the turkey soared for he flew into a tree at the back of a house. Sticks and stones proved to be no inducement for the bird to come down. One of the boys climbed into the tree, but the bird was always two jumps ahead of him. He had gone as far up as he dared when the gobbler seemed to say: "Try this if you will," and flew to another tree about a half block away. The boy climbed that tree, but the gobbler flew to the roof of a nearby house. More sticks and stones were of no avail and finally the owner departed and returned a short time later with another man armed with a gun. The first shot hit the turkey in the head and his little fight was over. His head was chopped off and undoubtedly will prove sweet eating for the owner. J. S. K.

HIT IT TWICE

Last Thursday, while watching the traffic on Pettibone's corner, I spied a large touring car with a woman driver stop on the crosswalk. A man had started to cross the street and while looking in a different direction bumped into the car. A woman walking behind the man ran into him causing him to bump into the car. The chagrined couple walked quickly away amid amused glances. B. L. F.

FIRST SKATERS
Sunday afternoon, while on a hike, I witnessed an amazing scene, for the 38th of November.

HERE IS A RARE ONE
At the corner of North and State streets, Saturday morning I saw a stalled car. Just as I approached the woman said to her husband "It acts as the we are out of gasoline." He replied "We can't be, for I put in 10 gallons only a half hour ago." However he went behind the car to investigate and exclaimed: "The whole tank and all is gone."

I took the man into my car and went in search of the tank and found it on the new London road just past the triangle school. He had run in from there on the gasoline in the vacuum tank. J. B. uum tank.

GOT A BUMP

Saturday evening at about 7 o'clock we were riding west on College-ave. near Story-st. when we saw a car just ahead of us strike the cement curb that surrounds the center boulevard. The party was driving fast and as the car struck the curb the back flew up in the air, the car careened to one side and it seemed it would surely go over, but it finally righted itself, and proceeded west.

HARD LUCK COLLISION

Monday evening about 7:30 I saw a car going north on Jefferson st. The machine was about twenty feet from the corner when the engine stopped and the lights went out. Another car came from the opposite direction but the driver did not notice the stalled car in time to avoid a collision. Each car had bumpers so there was not much damage except two bent fenders. None of the occupants was hurt. A. E.

LOOKED LIKE A SCRAP

BUYS FURNITURE FOR HOTEL UNIT

Modern Equipment Will be Installed at Hotel Appleton—Ask Bids Soon

Theodore L. Heid, manager of the Hotel Appleton, has returned from a business trip to Chicago where he placed an order for the furniture that is to be used in the new hotel addition, construction of which has begun.

Two carloads of up-to-date furniture will soon arrive that will supply 48 rooms of the addition. Steel beds will be used throughout, the same as are used in the present building. Twenty-four of the rooms will be fitted with shower baths and all rooms will be connected. Modern flush valve toilets will be installed in every room, which are considered much superior to old style gravity box toilets.

Greinke Brothers now are completing construction of the foundation for the addition, progress of which was somewhat delayed by recent rains. The architect's specifications will soon be ready so that contractors bids for the superstructure will be presented the latter part of this week or early next week.

Specifications will include an innovation in the form of windows that are to be used. In place of the sliding sashes, a type of collapsible window will be used throughout which will permit of easy washing. A baggage elevator will be installed at the side of the building on Washington st.

Postpone Meeting

Directors of the chamber of commerce will not hold their biweekly meeting on Thursday because of its being Thanksgiving day. The gathering will be held on Thursday of next week.

PRIDE GOETH BEFORE FALL

BEATING H. C. L.
This morning I found a Ford coupe in our back yard, parked in our drive way. Investigation revealed two youths sleeping in it. After awakening them, they explained that they were from Detroit on their way to Des Moines, Iowa, and it was their custom to sleep in their car in order to save hotel bills. They asked permission to park here when on their way back but a more convenient place was suggested. J. J.

HE WALKED HOME
At about 5:15 Monday afternoon at the corner of Washington and Durkeest a man of about middle age riding a bicycle north on Durkeest was struck by a Ford going east on Washington st. The man got up limping, his bicycle was smashed but he managed to walk home. N. F. P.

COULDN'T LOSE THE CAT
I saw a boy about 8 years old with a cat on his shoulder. I wondered what he was going to do with it until I saw him run for our neighbor's porch. He put the cat on the porch and walked quietly away on his tiptoes. But the cat came down and followed him. He put it on again, this time turning the cat's head so it could not see him and then ran away but the cat followed him again. He tried it again with the same result and then put the cat on his shoulder and went home with it. H. A. W.

NO HIDING THAT NIGHT
Saturday evening as I was walking along Second-ave I saw a man backing his car out of his yard. He lost control of the machine as it went crashing across the street, landing between an electric light pole and a tree. There were several occupants in the car. The front wheel was demolished. J. S.

JUST A LITTLE MISTAKEN

Saturday evening I had my car parked in front of the Bonini Meat Market on College-ave. Buick sedans were parked on each side of my machine. A woman came out of the meat market, stepped into one of the sedans and prepared to start off but just then a man came rushing up and told her that she was in his car. The woman apologized and went to her own sedan and started off. E. B. E.

WHY THERE ARE ACCIDENTS

Sunday evening about 10:30 o'clock as we were coming from Maple View on the Neenah road we noticed that the car ahead of us was being driven by an intoxicated man. He hit a mail box and almost tipped the car over but he kept on going. First he went to one side of the road and then to the other. He drove the car in the ditch and out again. The car was a large Jewitt and apparently was not damaged by its hard usage. E. E. B.

RIPARIAN PLEA IS CARRIED TO WAR DEPARTMENT

Farm Bureau Has Made National Issue of Fight to Prevent Spring Floods

A resolution was adopted at the Oshkosh conference on relief of high water last week whereby a member of the committee of investigation appointed by Governor Blaine and representatives of the Association for the Relief of High Water, with Wisconsin senators and representatives in congress, will call upon the secretary of war to ask for immediate action in securing relief from the annual spring menace of high water caused by over flow of the Fox river.

At the same time it was announced at the meeting that the Farm Bureau has entered the campaign nationally and its congressional representative will be in Oshkosh Dec. 1 to hear statements from riparian farmers whose lands have been damaged by high water.

LAND DESTROYED

It was testified by riparians that not only have their lands grown smaller, but that former fertile soil has become soggy, sour and of no value because of continued high water. In some cases, it was said, it became necessary to change the assessment rolls because farmers whose lands bordered on waterways refused to pay taxes on land which no longer exists, even though they possessed the title to them.

William Stange of Hortonville said that every spring he has to use a boat to get from his house to his barn and that last spring water stood 15 inches deep for five weeks. He pleaded for a cut-off from Shiocton to Green Bay.

Sluicing at an earlier date might have prevented much of the damage done by high water last spring, according to George H. Randall, city engineer of Oshkosh. He blamed government engineers for starting a month too late. They maintain the water at too high a stage, he said, ostensibly to protect the rights of navigation, and then came the spring rains and the lands are flooded.

CLOSED NEENAH SLUICES

"Last spring when the storm of Feb. 22 took place," there was a large amount of moisture precipitated, upon which the Milwaukee engineers should have had complete data. The sluicing was started before the thaw, but not long enough before, and at a time when the flood was at its height, the flashboards were washed off the top of the Neenah dam. The government works on the lower Fox river were endangered because they were weak. When the flood was near its peak it became necessary to close the sluices to save the works on the lower Fox and the entire Lake Winnebago was flooded.

"Every year, after the spring floods, the sluices are closed and water held back in supposed interests of navigation. A high stage is maintained while experience in past years has shown that navigation is possible even when the water is below the crest of the Neenah dam. In the winter the water might be drawn much lower than is now permitted and there would still be enough when the spring freshets come."

W. F. Barber of the conservation commission said the cutting of forests on the upper streams had removed an agency which made for a slow running of the snow. Instead of a steady and gradual running off, it comes now with a rush and a new problem is created.

GREEN BAY LIKED WEIGLE AS TALKER

Civic Expert Coming to Chamber of Commerce Forum Is Praised Warmly

Some glowing testimonials are reaching the chamber of commerce here concerning the speaking ability of Dan P. Weigle, former secretary of St. Paul Chamber of Commerce, who is to speak at the December forum meeting of the chamber here.

Mr. Weigle has been heard by a number of Appleton men and what they say of him is confirmed in a letter received from R. C. Everingham, secretary of Green Bay Association of Commerce. This secretary writes:

"It is my conviction that there are few public speakers on subjects allied with community welfare who are any more interesting and effective than Dan P. Weigle."

"There is a dynamic forcefulness about his word pictures that demonstrates a splendid earnestness, coupled with a very real understanding of human nature."

"We had about 250 people listen to him here, and that was practically the capacity of the auditorium in which he spoke. His wide experience along civic lines, together with a practical knowledge of how to apply theories of community betterment, taken with his ability as a platform speaker, make it a real treat to hear him. His talks are widely educational for those concerned in civic development."

Winter Builders

Cold Weather and Possibility of Snow Can't Stop City's Progress in Catching up on Its Shortage of Homes—Building Keeps on in Amount.

Quite a number of new houses were built in Appleton last winter, but the indications are a larger number will be erected the coming winter. Henry Hegner commenced work on a new home on Second-st last week and George Conors has just started on the foundation of a new bungalow on Carver-st near Mason. Several other persons have the foundations of their new homes completed.

Hunt Rabbits

Lieut. Claude Schroeder accompanied several friends who visited Big Falls on a hunting trip Sunday. They saw very few rabbits, but came upon ice several inches in thickness. Another party of hunters spent the day at Shiocton and reported rabbits more numerous. In many instances the animals are so tame they made no attempt to protect themselves.

TESTING OUT GOVERNMENT OVERCHARGES

Suits have been filed by the United States government against contractors who built cantonments to recover $20,000,000 of overcharges. Attorney General Daugherty announces that these four actions are the first of many that are to be started.

The government should follow down to the bottom every suspicion of profiteering, and prove either innocence or guilt by litigation. If any concern seems to have perverted its patriotism to great money-making, it should, no matter how influential it might be, be brought into court.

We all know that there was profiteering. Profiteering naturally has caused much of the existing discontent. It is necessary to expose it.

POPULATION

Two groups of scientists are merrily arguing whether the world a few generations hence will be overcrowded. One side, led by Dr. Raymond Pearl of Johns Hopkins university, holds that 200 millions, for instance, is the "saturation point" for the United States—after that the standard of living will steadily go down.

But Roy L. Garis, economist, finds a flaw in this pessimistic view. He says the problem is not so much one of population as of wealth, that so long as sufficient is produced for all earth's inhabitants, the over-population bugaboo need not be feared. He says mankind "has evolved to that point in civilization where it is motivated by other than the unconscious, instinctive impulses of the 'brute,'" and thereby some control of the rate of increase in population may be hoped for.

The important thing about this discussion is that men of brains already are turning their intellects upon a problem which 200 or 300 years from now may be the all-absorbing problem of humanity. They are laying the groundwork for its solution.

WITH MONEY OR WITHOUT IT?

Young Mr. William H. Vanderbilt on his twenty-first birthday comes into possession of the large estate left to him by his father. The inheritance is worth many millions of dollars. Other young men read the news with much interest and from various points of view with different emotions, some of gratification, some of envy, some of indifference. Riches is a subject which is of great importance to young men, as riches is the general objective. Here is a young man who is showered with capital as he reaches the age which is the beginning of life's work. Wealth is thrust upon him. He has enough of it to follow his wishes. If he wants to do big things, he has ample money; if he dislikes work and responsibility, he can idle his days away. He is situated so that he can be the chooser of his employment or course.

Most young men have practically no capital on which they may rely, practically no help, and but very little encouragement. Their parents make sacrifices in order to provide them with education, and education and good health are their only capital. If their parents are influential they may secure favorable opportunities in business. The average young man makes a satisfactory start if he has a fair education and goes to work where employers seem disposed to recognize ambition. He is lucky if he has to pay no board, as this enables him either to save a little money or to take special educational courses.

Is Mr. Vanderbilt better off than the average youth? Considering that he has ample money to live easy, he is in a strong position from this point of view of money. If money is the sole objective, then his work ends before it begins, for his objective is gone. He has nothing to live for, except to spend money. Yet, there are impediments connected with great wealth. We all know what they are. Young men are better off, as a rule, if they have no capital, or very little, beginning their life's work. Education, good health, strong character and ambition are sufficient capital. With these assets, young men should be able to prosper.

Money is only tangible property. The happiness of life is not in accumulating money, but in doing things. Achievements count. Young men who start out with no money have stronger incentive to work. Their comparative poverty is their moral capital, and generally it is the best of all with grit back of it.

MR. FORD ENTERS THE COAL TRADE

Mr. Henry Ford has bought large coal properties in Kentucky and West Virginia, and it is said he owns already one-fiftieth of the coal deposits in the United States. His intention is to sell coal at retail in Detroit and other cities on the Great Lakes.

Could Mr. Ford obtain the principal low cost mines it would be possible for him practically to dominate the mining industry. He could set a standard which would force the high cost mines to shut down, and low cost ones to work on the basis set by him. Would it not go a long way toward solving the coal-mining problems?

SIGNS

The nature of the coming winter will be determined according to an old superstition, by the conditions noted on the first three days of December. A day for a month—so the old belief goes. This sign should be about as reliable as any for forecasting the weather.

All those homely and rustic signs viewed with a deal of credence as sure prognosticators, point this year to an open winter. There is but little black on the coat of the caterpillar. Corn husks are the lightest that have been observed for several years. Muskrats are making their winter quarters in shallow waters near the banks of streams. If a long siege of cold weather were coming they would have built in mid-stream.

The squirrels are burying their crop of hickory nuts less deeply than usual. A number of cases of late blossoming apple trees have been reported, and several keen observers have noticed such phenomena as the liveliness of spiders and the presence of angleworms above ground at this late day.

But don't pin faith too readily to these signs. The United States weather bureau is about the most reliable prophet. And it is not given to foretelling the weather beyond a space of 48 hours.

THE RADIO IN COURT

The lawsuit which we have all been awaiting is in court in Dwight, Illinois. Edward McWilliams, a citizen of Dwight, petitions the circuit court to instruct one Wiley (G. W.) Bergman, another citizen of Dwight, not to monopolize the air with a sending outfit when other citizens are trying to receive stock quotations and similarly valuable information by radio. The said Bergman responds that the receivers should have no trouble in tuning their instruments so as to take messages.

The department of commerce has begun to regulate sound-wave traffic in the air. It has laid down specific rules, scientifically constructed. But it appears we shall have suits over trespass, damages and other complaints and causes. In time the rules, practice and litigation will develop a satisfactory code of laws respecting this form of air traffic. By that time, or before, we shall be working out a set of laws for aircraft.

PET PEEVES

Trotsky has for his pet peeves, the Greek church and the British navy. The K. K. K. chooses for its favorite aversions the Negroes and the Church of Rome. The prohibitionists vent their feelings on demon rum. The reds get their fun by abusing the capitalists. Some people have mild peeves. They do not like to be slapped on the shoulders or they may not like coffee except when it is piping hot. There are a few uninteresting people who have no aversions. They have no latent enmities. They are prepared to meet anybody or anything with calmness. While it may be an indication of weakness to have a pet peeve, the person who has none misses many of the joys of sudden reactions. He never discovers the exuberance of subtle sarcasm. He may not "get all hot up," but he often loses the temporary satisfaction of playing the fool. He may be devoid of prejudices but the man without a pet peeve seems to lack a vital, decisive quality.

The world is a lot more exciting and interesting because most of us do indulge in harmless peeves. —Cedar Rapids Gazette.

THE FIRST THREE YEARS

Grampy, with his chronic bronchitis or winter cough, was as regular as taxes and as wrong in his conventional notions of the cause of the trouble and the ways of health as a testimonial writer. It took three years, mostly winters, of eloquence and logic, not to say nagging, by the doctor to impart the first rudiments of a common sense hygiene. Grampy finally came to believe that clothing is something to be worn for comfort, winter or summer and not for armor against "taking cold," and he had to admit, after an exhaustive scientific consideration of all the textile materials used for underwear, that for a man of sedentary indoor life a fairly light weight, porous (that is, sort of a stockinette machine knitted stuff), and not tightly woven flannel or fleece lined stuff, woolen union suit, with socks of about the same material, offered the greatest comfort indoors and out.

Being regular, the patient had been in the habit of wearing a curious contrivance of red flannel—why red, it would be a puzzle to determine, but perhaps because red is the danger signal—cut in the outline of a shield, and Grampy rather shamefacedly confessed to the doctor that this contrivance was a "chest protector." He was influenced to discard the "chest protector" more by the argument that it was an uncleanly thing than by any belief that it actually tended to impair his natural resistance to infection. Being regular, again, he was one of those individuals who imagine that body warmth and comfort come from external heat, artificial warmth, rather than from within. With this idea uppermost in mind it is not strange that an invalid with trouble he imagines was caused by "cold" in the first place should be inclined to wear more clothing than comfort really called for, especially upon the throat and chest where he childishly fancied the cold might "penetrate." It was a great day for the doctor, therefore, when Grampy first ventured out for his constitutional sensibly, even lightly attired, notwithstanding the blistering weather. The doctor espied his difficult patient beating it up the avenue at a fine gait, swinging his stick as lightly about his throat, without a sign of any of those timorous apertures of the wayward valetudinarian. "Well," he said to himself, "it looks as though we were getting Grampy's goat. He is sleeping nights with two bed room windows wide open, and taking his oxygen about day times. He's pretty well broken of the coddling habit and real or imaginary drafts no longer send him scurrying for cover. We must try now what a little sensible dieting will do for that boy and maybe broach the subject of autogenous vaccines. They give the itch seven years in Indiana. I wonder if bronchitis really must run on forever."

If there is anything in this idea of "live and learn" a man a 74 ought to begin to have glimmers of intelligence, and yet so few of us live to learn that few of us learn to live. Grampy did, reluctantly. And to hear him telling about it nowadays—usually is—one would imagine Grampy chose the way and led the doctor on after him. That's another peculiarity of the psychology of the older boys. If you do succeed in hammering a new idea into their heads they invariably imagine they have conceived it themselves.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Fibro-Sarcoma

Is fibro-sarcoma a cancer or tumor?—(E. F.)
Answer—Sarcoma is one of the more malignant types of cancer, occurring in persons of any age and rapidly fatal in its course unless radically removed by operation. The term fibro-sarcoma means that the structure is that of a mass of fibres, as seen under the microscope. The cause of cancer is unknown. Sarcoma often develops in the site of some previous injury. X-ray and radium treatment seem to have less influence upon sarcoma than upon the other types of cancer (carcinoma and epithelioma especially).

Cataract

When a person has a cataract is it necessary to wait a long time before an operation can be performed?—(Mrs. M. P.)
Answer—Nowadays cataract is commonly operated on immediately, without waiting indefinitely for the cataract to "ripen." You should give yourself the benefit of any doubt by consulting an oculist about it.

Leakage of the Heart

What is meant by leakage of the heart? Is it a cause of death?—(Mrs. M. R. H.)
Answer—There are membranous valves between the two right cavities, and others between the two left cavities of the heart and similar valves between the heart and the great arteries. These valves close after the contraction of the heart, and prevent any blood from leaking back into the heart. As a result of infection (germs lodging on and entering the membrane) of the valves, and inflammation thus caused (endocarditis) the membrane may become thickened or distorted and then the valve will not close perfectly. That constitutes "leakage of the heart," or valvular disease. It is never in itself a cause of death. Indeed, most persons with leakage of the heart die finally of other causes independent of the heart defect.

RESIGNATION ELIMINATES NEWBERRYISM AS ISSUE

The resignation of Truman H. Newberry from the United States Senate will prove very acceptable to the Republican leaders, in the opinion of most editors, in that it will eliminate the issue of "Newberryism" from future elections. There are a few who take the contrary view but the majority argue that with his departure, and the Senate itself on record as condemning the free use of money to influence the voters, the case is finished for all time.

Maintaining that when they come to a full understanding of the facts the people of Michigan "will regret having permitted the hounding of Senator Newberry," the Detroit FREE PRESS (Ind.) says there was "nothing left" for him to do but resign and asserts that "as for Newberry himself, he can find comfort in the recollection that at a critical moment in the history of his country, he served it effectively and in an absolutely saving manner, fought menace from within, acting as his patriotism and conscience dictated. Though belatedly Truman H. Newberry becomes a war casualty, the victim of influences inimical to the best interests of the nation, we believe that later on the people of Michigan will understand some of the things much better than they do now."

To which the New York WORLD (Dem.), replies that his "purchased seat Newberry now resigns to forestall an explosion. He complains of partisan abuse, but in cold fact he goes because his own party can no longer stomach him. He was tried before a Republican judge in Michigan. He was repudiated in the late election by the Republican voters who broke a precedent of 70 years to defeat his champion and co-Senator on the Newberry issue. President Harding and the Old Guard, after that have neither power nor wish to save him." And the Detroit NEWS (Ind.), after reviewing the defense of the Senator put forth in his letter of resignation says "It is indicative of no incurable spleen if the unsound passage in his own song are pointed out. Michigan will not willingly find herself in the same predicament as she is now, but it is well that the record descending in the future show the story completely and by that token fairly that the last word be not that Senator Newberry was a barbed martyr, as his farewell by the circumstances of his writing, necessarily has made it appear. That, after all, it is Senator Newberry, and not the State of Michigan that has been mistaken."

This line of reasoning is opposed by the Boston TRANSCRIPT (Ind. Rep.), which, like the Detroit FREE PRESS, enthusiastically defends the Senator characterizing his resignation "as an act of gallantry and self-abnegation that is thoroughly characteristic of the man." The Washington STAR (Ind.), considers his retirement as "closing the case" and believes it "had its beneficial result in warning—formally expressed in the Senate—resolution of last January—of all parties and all candidates. To continuous vigorous denunciation of the excessive use of money in elections all thoughtful Americans will say amen." Senator Newberry's withdrawal is "a relief to his supporters," the Newark NEWS (Ind.), is convinced and he has saved himself an end of misery by taking himself out of the picture. Relief will be the portion of the Republicans, who will have the assurance that, now that Newberry has vanished, it will be difficult to keep the Newberry issue alive until 1924.

The Memphis NEWS-SCIMITAR (Ind.), also feels that "the resignation is in line with the sentiment of the American people," and eliminates a type "that believes money can move mountains, carry elections and accomplish anything else. Newberry the individual has passed from the scene. Newberryism, the symptom, still remains, but with every indication of its speedy eradication." The fact that it was Newberry's vote that gave the Republicans control of the Senate in March 1913 is recalled by the Syracuse HERALD, voteless for a hatri.

Must Find Use For Waste Lumber

A bright side of the receding forest and declining lumber production, accompanied by increasing prices of forest products, is the prospect that the present immense waste of the forest industries will be largely eliminated.

At present only about 30 or 40 per cent of the cut timber is utilized, there being no profitable use for the remainder. The increased value of timber is beginning to make it profitable to convert the waste into merchantable products.

Among the by-products of wood wastes such as sawdust and shavings are alcohol, tanning extracts, turpentine, pine oils; fiber for rugs, carpets, bags and all sorts of fabrics; imitation leather, linoleum, insulating material, fuel in furnaces and stoves and in gas producers, briquette manufacture, fire lighters, fur dressing, fire extinguishers, cleaning and drying agents for metals, machinery, etc.; artificial wood, hardening and annealing of metals, heat insulation in cars, icehouses, etc.; sound deadening in floors, manufacturing of fertilizers, cement, mortars and plasters, burning clay products, manufacture of oxalic acid, manufacture of illuminating gas, manufacture of wall paper, purification of gas, composition of paving blocks, filtering medium.

The public interest in the utilization of forest by-products lies not only in the additional supply of needed materials that will result, but in the likelihood that the revenues derived from them will tend to keep lumber prices from advancing as high as might otherwise be expected with the reduction of the forest area.

In the meat packing industry the value of the by-products makes it possible for the packers to prosper with a margin of only a cent on fresh meats. With full development of lumber by-products, a very narrow margin on lumber itself may be hoped for.

Q. How should a chameleon be cared for? W. C.

A. A chameleon should be kept in a large wooden box, in which is placed a small amount of dry sand and grass. Its food consists of any small insects, particularly flies. Meal worms may be fed when the insects are not available.

Q. What constitutes natural gas?

A. It is a gaseous member of the paraffin series, petroleum being a liquid member and asphalt a solid one. Natural gas is made up chiefly of marsh gas, or methane (CH₄), which usually forms over 99 per cent of the entire gas, the extremes of a number of analyses of United States samples being 98.30 (Ala.) and 14.33 (Dexter, Kansas). In this same series carbon dioxide ranges from 0.05 to 30.40 per cent; nitrogen from 0.20 to 36.40 per cent and oxygen from 0.00 to 9.99 per cent. Other hydrocarbons are usually present in small amounts, but range from a few tenths per cent up to 20 or 30 per cent in exceptional cases. The rare element neon as well as helium has been found in Kansas gas.

Q. Who is the author of the saying "The hand that rocks the cradle rules the world"? S. T. G.

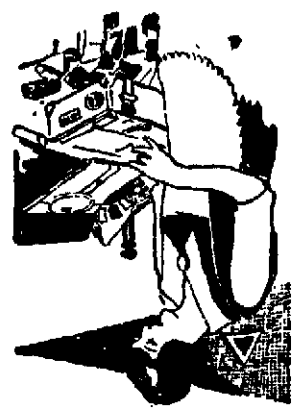

A. William Stott Wallace, who was born in 1819 and died in 1881. The words are from his poem "What Rules the World."

defend his friend in the Senate and perhaps would have been returned to the Senate at the recent election. He also "escaped" rather fortunately, Nashville BANNER (Ind. Dem.), says because "entrusted in the Senate, neglected socially in Washington, condemned at home, almost outlawed by general public sentiment, freed on a technicality from prison sentence, he is nevertheless permitted to retire from official life and seek permanent cloister in the recesses of oblivion." In addition the Ashbury PARK PRESS (Ind. Dem.), holds that "he does not relieve himself of the moral guilt of usurping and office, which by all ethical standards, was not his." There will be a sequel in the elections of 1924 and 1926, the Schnechtady GAZETTE (Ind.), feels that "when the people have the opportunity of retiring to private life the remainder of those Senators who have betrayed their constituents and the requirements of decent government by voting to seat Newberry."

"He had to go and he choose the proper time for his going," says the Norfolk LEDGER DISPATCH (Ind. Dem.), while the Indianapolis NEWS (Ind.), feels "there are few who will regret his action." By thus "improving himself on the altar of our free institutions," the Cincinnati TIMES STAR (Rep.), asserts that "the retiring Senator will help to make our captains of industry more skeptical of the political parasites who guarantee to 'deliver the goods' at primary elections if but the purse strings are sufficiently lax. Doubtless Senator Newberry has learned his lesson. The next attack himself to some family article of commerce, so that his publicity will be of the thing, rather than of the man, and therefore legitimate."

FRENCH VAUDEVILLE

Paris—If somebody asked you to translate "vaudeville" into French, you might unwarily think the man was trying to spoof you, as when the fellow asked how to render "esprit de corps" into the French language.

But that isn't the answer. When a Frenchman uses the word "vaudeville" he means "farce," and when he says "farce" he means a "practical joke," and when he wants to say what we call vaudeville in the United States, he says "cave-concert."

But still it is not quite the same thing. The real French cave-concert is something that does not exist outside France. And unfortunately comparatively few Americans who visit Paris get acquainted with it.

To begin with, one who attends the cave-concert performance should get it out of his head that he is at a college place-club entertainment. There is an intimate atmosphere of cooperation between audience and performers, and there is a certain amateur spirit on the part of the latter that can scarcely be likened to anything in these institutions exist all over the city, and probably no complete catalogue of the mias ever been compiled. Some, however, are famous, and a few are exploited in a more commercial spirit than seems strictly in keeping with their character. But as a rule they are unpretentious little establishments, often with seats for scarcely more than a hundred spectators, and the price is kept down to a modest five or six francs, sometimes including one "consumption" (drink).

The entertainment consists chiefly, and sometimes wholly, in the rendering of topical songs by their composers. Accompanied by a tiny piano (which does little but "tamp" the measure) one after another of the "chaussoniers" is introduced. He sings (or generally talks) his four or five songs, and then introduces the next on the programme.

The audience is mainly composed of regular patrons who know all the chaussoniers, and not only join in the refrains but also clamor for old favorites. Sometimes there is a wit in the audience who adds to the entertainment by suggesting variations.

The "chausson" generally have not much tune. It is the words and the manner of delivery that count. Yet how explain their charm? Mostly the composers have not memorized the words, but pull out bits of paper from their pockets to refresh their memories. But the charm is there, and loudly applauded.

Current events are nearly always the subject. A chausson may have a dozen verses, each about some public character or happening. Often, it must be confessed, the language is not such as would be used on an American stage, despite the fact that most of the audience consists of French families.

It has become the fashion, even at the smaller cave-concerts, to present a "revue" at the end of the performance. When all the chaussoniers have been heard, an intermission is announced, and the audience repairs in a body to the bar, either to drink—though comparatively few do this—or to look at the pictures that adorn the walls. Original comic cartoons are here, signed by some of the most famous French pen-sketchers, as well as other art treasures, frequently of considerable historic interest.

Old Pompeiians Had Bars

(A. A. Hopkins, in The Mentor Magazine.)

Surprising discoveries are being made on the site of ancient Pompeii, thanks to a method of excavating developed since the war.

Heretofore pits and trenches have been sunk into the former street level of the city, which was buried under ashes from Mt. Vesuvius, Aug. 24, A. D. 79, and the relics exhumed were sent to the Naples museum. Today the excavators remove horizontal strata of earth, descending gradually so as to preserve all parts of the buildings that escaped destruction.

It is now known that, unlike oriental houses, the Pompeian structures had porches, balconies, and many windows; that Pompeians had "dumb waiters," drinking bars, electrician posters, advertising, and many other features of "modern" life.

Instead of carting off the relics to the museum, the city is being restored as it was.

* LANTERN FESTIVAL STILL *
* SURVIVES IN FLORENCE *
* * * * *

In Florence there still survives, on the evening of Sept. 7, though in a greatly attenuated degree, some trace of the old festival of lanterns.

To see even such vestiges of it as survive one must penetrate into the old streets and byways of the humbler quarters, where one may still see the bright paper lanterns dancing on their long bamboo sticks from the windows, or in the hands of the children, who go up and down singing the old popular rhyme handed down from centuries, which may be roughly translated:

"Mine is the finest of the lot."

Better than that my aunt has got." This feat is entirely peculiar to Florence and the near neighborhood; and the lanterns with which it is traditionally celebrated are also a local specialty and are produced, not in factories, but by the people themselves.

Tissue paper of various colors is employed, this being stretched on strips of card or thin wood and so bent that the lantern takes the shape of a basket, globe, boat, bell or any other form desired. The different sides or quarters are cut from different colored papers and the whole is framed round the edges and angles with long bamboo strips, also gaily tricked out with twisted fringes of colored paper.

The sight of the bright lanterns dancing and swaying on the graceful bamboo sticks in the narrow streets and from the windows of the lofty houses and towers is one of pure delight. It is regrettable that in recent years there is a tendency to substitute Japanese lanterns for the old traditional forms, so charming and so native to the city, with their pretty paper fringes and dangling streamers and chains of looped paper.

ing of what in America would be considered inappropriate. One of the most famous cave-concerts in Paris is the "Boite a Fursy," now run by the son of the late Fursy. The original Fursy, claimed to have been the inventor of the impromptu song in which various people in the audience are "kidded." Whether that is true, such songs are still a tradition of the house.

"If you enter the hall after the show has started, you will be somewhat taken aback to see the chaussonier stop his song abruptly and then lead the whole assemblage in singing: "Attendez que ces Messieurs et que ces dames soient assés!"

Qu'il soient les bienvenus a la Boite a Fursy!"

Which might be English: "Stop a minute till these gentlemen and ladies find their row."

Let us try to make them feel at home at Fursy's little show." This happens half a dozen times during the evening, and the audience is delighted if the newcomers exhibit any chagrin or confusion at being made the center of attraction.

Turkey Day Occasion Of 14 Weddings

Nuptial Rush Is Changing from June to Thanksgiving Festal Time

Thanksgiving day which of all holidays except Christmas occupies first place in popularity according to the verdict of Young America, now bids for fame in another sense. It threatens to rival the month of June as the most popular season for honeymoons.

Although June, 1922, broke all previous records for the number of marriage licenses granted in any month of any year, yet no day in June can show as many weddings as will be solemnized this coming Thanksgiving day. No fewer than 23 persons will be married then in Outagamie county, according to the information given the county clerk.

The number of couples represents about one-third of the 44 couples who have thus far applied for licenses.

WORN OUT AFTER SHE COOKED A MEAL

Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Read the Result

Cincinnati, Ohio. — "I suffered for a year with nervous troubles and irregularities before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. My back pained all the time and I was unfit for housework. I was worn out if I cooked a meal, and was unable to do my washing. My girl friends and my sister told me if I would take your Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills I would be relieved. After taking the first bottle I felt better, and neglected it awhile, but found I could not do my work until I was stronger. So I took the Vegetable Compound again and now I am the mother of a 19 months old boy. He is fat and healthy and I am sure I could never have carried him if it had not been for your medicine. I recommend your medicine to all women although I am young to be advising some one older."

BUYER'S ABSENCE LEAVES CREAMERY DEAL UNDECIDED

Stockholders of Seymour Plant Favor Sale But Oppose Use as Condensery

Special to Post-Crescent

Seymour—Absence of representatives of two companies which had made offers to buy or lease the plant of Seymour Creamery company prevented the stockholders from taking action at a special meeting here Monday evening. The entire matter was discussed and there appeared to be considerable opposition to leasing the creamery to any concern that would convert it into a condensery.

The meeting was adjourned until 1:30 Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 29, at which time the stockholders will assemble again and try to close up the matter.

One of the officials of the Fairmont creamery, Green Bay, was present and others had been expected from East Troy and Fond du Lac. More than 100 persons were in attendance, including 75 stockholders and about 25 members of Seymour Chamber of Commerce.

An offer from East Troy Products company to lease the plant with the privilege of buying was what started the move to possibly dispose of the business. This firm would use it for a condensery. In talks given by a number of the stockholders, the majority appeared to favor selling the creamery, but most of them seemed to object to having a condensery company obtain it. Others advocated reorganization of the company and continuing the business.

This company was organized a number of years ago by the farmers of this locality. It is said that during the recent depression the creamery ran into debt and the directors felt that something ought to be done to place the business on a sound financial footing, otherwise the plant should be disposed of.

PAY DECENT WAGE TO LABOR TO PUT END TO UNREST

Peter W. Collins Tells Kaukauna Audience of Greatest Evils of the Day

Kaukauna—Naming underpaid workmen, unemployment and child labor as three great present day evils among a host of evils in social, economic, industrial and private life, Peter W. Collins, Boston, spoke in the city auditorium Monday evening under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus before a crowd of about 450 people. He was introduced by the Rev. F. X. Van Nistleroy of Kimberley.

"No matter what is wrong in this world in social, industrial, economic and even private life," said Mr. Collins, "is brought about by breaking of the ten commandments given to mankind through Moses." The speaker said that while he was not on the platform to prove the existence of a God or Supreme Ruler, he could show by innumerable examples that such a ruler exists. He said the socialist belief is directly opposed to belief in a ruler and said that their creed is that there is no room for a creator or ruler.

An open forum followed Mr. Collins' address and a few questions were answered, most of them requiring an expression of opinion on the part of the lecturer.

Bolshevism, socialism, redism and others were discussed and were classed as the enemy outside the gate. The evils within the country were discussed at considerable length and were classed as the enemy within the gate, which, according to the speaker, required more watchfulness than the various forms of "isms."

Mr. Collins said that the cause of economic disaster in any nation is the underpaid workmen and the evils of intemperance, poverty and unemployment that spring from the condition.

"The answer to that evil is that the workman is worthy of his hire," the speaker said. "The remedy is the living wage, a wage that will enable the head of the family, the workman, to maintain and protect his family comfortably; a wage that will leave him a little balance to put into a savings account for a time of sickness, unemployment or death of the wage earner of the family; a wage that will allow him to send his children through the schools so that they in their turn can use their talents to better humanity."

"The living wage can only be brought about by peace and harmony, by adjusting grievances between capital and labor at the conference board and not by bitter strife and hatred."

"The evil of child labor was especially exploited in the southern states," said Mr. Collins. "Little children were used for work in mines or, as in the south, in cotton fields or factories when they should have been studying in school. Public opinion has caused a large decrease in the evil of child labor but there still are a million children employed in mills and factories because their employers know they can pay a small wage."

By organization, education and legislation the evil can be overcome and the children now working can be brought into schools to enjoy the advantages of an education."

Unemployment was next considered as an evil of today. The speaker said that in normal times about one million men are continually out of work, while at the present between four and seven million persons are unemployed. That evil brings other evils such as crime, poverty, wretchedness and misery.

"To overcome that evil it is necessary to bring the man and the job together. That can be done by the establishment of nationwide employment bureaus and systems by the federal and state governments."

LEGION CLAIMS AMATEUR TITLE

Kaukauna Gridders Wind Up Second Season Without a Defeat

Kaukauna—Kaukauna American legion football team closed its second consecutive season without a defeat Sunday afternoon when it won from the Lanerman Twins, a professional team of Marinette, by a score of 10 to 6. Since its organization in 1920 the team has been pitted against the best teams available in Wisconsin and there have been few opponents who have been able to furnish god opposition.

As a result of its victories over Milwaukee Athletic club, Oconto, Marinette and the Twins, besides several other strong teams, the legion is claiming the state amateur title again this season. Plans are being made for the annual banquet to be held within the next week or two. An effort will be made to prepare the event before the departure of Captain Gold Lindauer, who will leave soon for his new home in California.

INSTANT HEAT CO. STOCK PROMOTION IS FRAUDULENT

That is Charge of Advertising Clubs After Investigating Scheme

Characterizing the sale of stock of the Instant Heat Company of America, Appleton, by H. L. Barber & Co., Chicago, as "another deception of the investing public's purse," the national vigilance committee of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World is using this as an example in warning investors against "wild-cat" speculation and preventing the building of "sucker" lists through bait advertising.

A circular has been issued by the vigilance committee that fairly bristles with criticism of the Chicago stock promoting company and its financial magazine "Investing for Profit" and another publication, "Making Money Make Money," which, the committee charges, serve as decoys for sale of stock in practically worthless promotions.

CHARGE FRAUD

"H. L. Barber of Chicago fleeces the public with stock of Instant Heat Company of America after gaining confidence by posing as financial expert," is the specific charge of the committee with reference to the Appleton industry on Lake-st.

Investigation of the Instant Heat company scheme was started by the Advertising club of Appleton some time ago. One of the Chicago men connected with the concern appeared before the club but it soon learned the investigation was largely out of its jurisdiction and it turned over all its data to the national vigilance committee which conducted a thorough probe of the entire matter.

The methods of the fiscal agents for the Instant Heat Company of America, Appleton, are described as follows: An advertisement is inserted into newspapers urging people to subscribe to the "Investing for Profit" magazine which is said to explain how stupendous profits are made—how $1,000 grows to $22,000.

Circulars also are issued by the company advertising the magazine and promising the recipient that he will receive "under another cover, some printed matter" which tells something of a most prosperous industry," so organized "that the money invested in it will receive all that it earns, not mere interest." Barber tells his readers that he has thoroughly investigated this company and that the management is composed of men of high character who are specially qualified to conduct this business. A number of "blind" testimonials are enclosed.

HOW IT IS DONE

In its arraignment of H. L. Barber & Co., the vigilance committee of the Advertising clubs says: "The reader, upon application, receives the magazine, which is merely a mouthpiece for Barber to proclaim the alleged merits of particular stocks he is handling. Considerable space is devoted to reports and statistics clipped from various sources. This fill-in material is used to convey the false impression that the magazine is an unbiased reporter of financial facts.

"Shortly after the first issues of the magazine are received, the reader begins to receive quantities of literature urging investment in special enterprises among which is the Instant Heat Company of America. The quantity of advertising with which H. L. Barber floods all parts of the country has probably never been exceeded by any other promoter in the United States. Practically all of it is flamboyant in character and highly destructive of reader confidence.

"Among the enterprises which Barber has foisted upon the public are George Alot Land Co., United States Gold corporation, Consolidated Midway Chief Oil Co., Boulder Tungsten Production Co., Malibohm Motors corporation, Commonwealth Pictures corporation, Convertible Tractors Co., Cofectone Co., Rangers Gas Co., Inc., Consumers Stores Co., Monetary Metals Co."

An example of how the high pressure sales argument appearing in "Investing for Profit" failed to square with the actual circumstances of the Instant Heat Company of America is quoted as follows by the committee from the magazine: "The company is making big money now; and with the introduction of the greater working capital being raised, there seems to be no reason why every dollar of the new capital should not do better than the corresponding amount of capital now at work is doing. In the meantime, the shareholders have been drawing monthly dividends at the rate of 24 per cent a year."

Continuing its criticism of the advertising of the Instant Heat company, the committee says, "All surrounding circumstances in the company would make it appear that if 'big' money were made by the company it certainly was not available for the legitimate development purposes of the organization. Delay in the delivery of stock certificates to purchasers was reported. Many dividend checks were protested and some of them were returned to the stockholders as worthless. Barber, however, continued to advise the readers to place their savings in the concern. It was a case of 'investing for profit' but Barber neglected to state the extent to which he was interested in his own profit."

Illustrations of the Instant Heat Company of America at Appleton appeared on the letterhead of the company and in much of its advertising. A comparison of these pictures with an actual photograph of the building reveals some striking differences. The advertisement's illustration of the entire additional floor and at the rear another extra floor to the building it occupies. In the illustration, two adjoining buildings are appropriated and company signs affixed to them. A beautiful lawn and boulevard, with hedges and ornamental fountain have been added to the picture.

"A great quantity of the stock was

RADIO PATTEN

New York—What is believed to be the most simple, and yet most efficient radio receiving instrument made has just been demonstrated here by its inventor, David Grimes.

Grimes was graduated from the University of Minnesota as an electrical engineer. During the war he was assigned to radio duty in connection with the air service and was instructor in radio at Kelly Field Texas. He has done special work in radio for the government and private interests.

The instrument Grimes has produced is of special interest in that it can receive a broadcast message or concert without the use of an aerial, ground wire or outside connection of any sort. In fact, Grimes says it will receive clearly through static or other interference.

In his demonstration Grimes installed the receiver on an automobile and rode over a tortuous route, in order to test it against directional effect. He showed, throughout this test, that the instrument could receive a concert from a nearby station equally effectively from any direction.

More startling, however, was the success with which Grimes received the concert while his car raced at varying speeds, almost up to 60 miles an hour. The hum of the motor, the wind resistance and jarring of the car had little effect on the instrument.

"It has performed with complete satisfaction," says Grimes of his invention, "aboard ships in the Atlantic Ocean, also on railroad trains during trial demonstrations. I can see no reason why it should not operate thousands of feet above the earth in a fast airplane."

SAM IS IN SWEDEN

Sam is in Sweden, but this happens to be the radio-compass station at Hailo on the Skaggeak, which got these call letters when it was opened for general service recently. It will give hearings to vessels calling within a distance of 150 miles on a wave length of 600 meters.

"LIGHTS" AFFECT RADIO

The Aurora Borealis, or Northern Lights, is causing trouble to transmitting amateurs in the north. The light waves are able to receive, but not to transmit, while the aurora was on display. Scientists investigating the phenomenon placed the blame on the lights.

MOTHER!

Open Child's Bowels with "California Fig Syrup"

Even a sick child can find the fruitiness of California Fig Syrup. If the little tongue is coated, or if your child is listless, cross, feverish, full of cold, or has colic, a teaspoonful will never fail to open the bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the constipation poison, sour bile and waste from the tender, little bowels and gives you a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup. adv.

Makes a Family Supply of Cough Remedy

Really better than ready-made cough syrups, and saves about $2. Easily and quickly prepared.

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real curative power as there is in this simple home-made cough syrup, which is easily prepared in a few minutes.

Get from any druggist 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with syrup, using either plain granulated sugar syrup, clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, as desired. The result is a full pint of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the nasty throat tickle and heals the sore, irritated membranes so gently and easily that it is really astonishing.

A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma, there is nothing better.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations to break severe coughs. To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. Revenge

High School Pupils Pay Five Cents a Cud Toward Teacher's Plot for "Revenge" for Chewing Gum in Class—Economy Exercised in Spending Money.

"Revenge" was the name of one of the plucky little English ships in the fight with the Spanish Armada and a picture of that "Revenge" is the revenge of Miss Hester Harper on her high school students who chewed gum in class last year. Miss Harper instituted a gum fund last year, not for the purchase of cuds but as a means of their elimination.

From each gum chewer, the anti-gum campaign teacher extracted one nickel per cud on the basis that any high school student who had money with which to buy anything so "useless and offensive" as gum must have some to donate to a good cause. Miss Harper decided that the money should be used for the purchase of a picture for the English classroom in which the nickels were forfeited.

The picture of "Revenge" which is done in colors and is a good print of the attack upon the Armada has a history of its own. It was found unused in the history class room and has been placed in one of the old frames which were rid of their worn-out pictures during the summer. The economy with which the picture was secured has left most of the gum fund for the purchase of another picture with the help of those who chew during the coming year.

Duck And Deer Lure More Men As Hunting Fans

The season of 1922 proved to be a better year for hunters than the season of 1921, judging from the number of hunting licenses applied for this fall. More licenses already have been issued from the office of Herman J. Kamps, county clerk, up to date this year than were issued in the entire season of 1921. A total of something more than 2,250 was given out last season, and 2,337 so far this season.

Fewer deer tags were issued this year than last. Not only were there fewer deer hunters, but because of the lack of snow the season has not been so profitable a one for those who made the northern trip.

Thanksgiving Day—
set aside by our forefathers as a time for devotion and thanksgiving—often loses its significance in this day of hurry and bustle. To the rank and file of us it has come to mean merely a coveted holiday.
It is a human fallacy to forget the spirit of an occasion while remembering the letter of it. Yet we have so much more to be truly thankful for than our courageous ancestors.
An hour might be worse spent than in thinking over our advantages and opportunities. Thinking about them makes us appreciate them more, and appreciating them more induces us to make the best use of them.

Dolling Up Bridge Table Real Sport

Dressing up Card Tables is Getting to be Important Preparation for Party

They are dressing up the bridge table more than ever this season. It used to be if a woman owned a folding card table or two covered with hideous green felt, she not only felt herself adequately equipped to entertain royally, but she was the envy of her neighbors, who used to borrow or rent tables when the bridge club met with them.

But now the card table is as carefully chosen as any other bit of furniture. The old fashioned tilt tables are favorites, their size being just right for bridge. Gate leg tables are also popular. But even when these treasures are used they are dolled up with covers, made especially for them.

Variety of Covers
Black is the favorite for these covers. Black satin, black felt, black oilcloth and black sateen, all are used, with the corners weighted and hung with immense bright colored tassels of yarn or gleaming metal. The edges of the cloth may be hemmed, and run with simple embroidery stitches to match the tassel, and a basket or some conventional design embroidered in one corner. Or the edge may be turned under and finished with gilt braid.

Then there are saten covers of gray trimmed in red, blue decorated in stencil effect with white and black. Sometimes the corners are cut and snapped together over the table corners, and sometimes they tie underneath the corners. Of course, where weights are used no fastening is necessary.

Artistic Equipment
Beside the covers there are many clever table markers for a party where more than two tables are playing. There are trump pencils, and funny cats and dogs holding the trump in their mouths, with a contraption for changing the trump each time.

There are cards bearing the monogram of the hostess on their backs. There are all sorts of funny and gay scene pencils, and scene cards in fancy covers.

Table numbers may be made from ordinary house numbers, enameled in black, with tiny sprays of flowers painted on them. Patterns may be bought and the designs put on in following manner:

When enamel is quite dry sprinkle talcum powder over the design and place face down on the number. Rub design on wrong side with the finger. Remove paper and rub powder gently with the finger. The powder will remain on the outline of the flowers. Paint the flowers with oil paint mixed with white enamel, using rose, lavender, yellow and blue for the flowers and green for the leaves.

A slate makes a novel score card when the plain wooden edge is enameled black and painted. A fancy thumbtack holds a piece of black ribbon on one side, to which is attached the pencil and eraser—a bit of cotton covered with green taffeta. The lines on the slate are put in with a pair of scissors to keep them from rubbing out.

Then, when it comes time to serve the luncheon, again the partiality for the table is noticed. Special sets of lunch cloths with napkins to match are the approved thing. They may be as elaborate or as simple as desired, but they must be a bit different from the ones used for the regulation luncheon.

DRESS HINTS

AMBER-COLORED VELVET
Amber-colored velvet is used to make one of the most lovely evening frocks of the season. The sleeves are formed in a circle of amber held close to the arm above the elbow and held in place by strands of amber from the shoulder.

LEATHER TRIMMINGS
Very soft, light leather in vivid colors is used to trim sport dresses of crepe de chine that are now being made up for wear at the southern resorts. Sometimes it is employed to make the monogram and belt.

THE TIERED SKIRT

The tiered skirt is the closest rival of the draped model and is seen to excellent advantage in the new silk and cloth frocks. Often a slanting effect is gained, and frequently they are fur-trimmed, or banded with contrasting materials.

OF BLACK LACE

A black lace dinner gown has a skirt formed of cascades of lace and has a huge velvet bow which begins at the waistline and continues to the hem.

COLORFUL BRIDAL FROCKS

In England there is a tendency to introduce colors into the bridal gown. Mauve, pink and other delicate shades of satin have been used instead of the time-honored white. The fashion has made no headway in America or France.

COSTUME FOR OFFICE

Correct Incorrect

For the business girl the plainer type of costume is most appropriate. This girl is more correctly dressed for work or for shopping in the trim blue serge with its trimmings of black braid and its detachable white collar, than she is in the fur-banded silk costume, which is more appropriate for social affairs. Trimness and smartness are more apt to lurk in simple costumes than in fancy ones.

Honeymooner's Abroad

Chapter 10 — Bandits By Zoe Beckley

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Business cares have spoiled an excursion about Naples for JACK DURYEA and his bride, EDNA, and COUSINS, European manager for Jack's employers. Jack secretly is investigating Cousin's activities with a view to discovering suspected double-dealing.

GO ON WITH THE STORY
They were returning from Pompeii to Naples in the big green car. Tired as he was with the long day's excursions and conscious of the suppressed antagonism between himself and Edna, Jack noticed how slowly the machine was going.

Suddenly, in the darkest part of a gloomy, dirty street, no wider than an alley, several figures leaped from the shadows to the running board. "Soldi, signori, soldi!" cried a raucous voice.

Jack knew the beggar formula, but this was no beggar's tone. Obviously the man was the leader of a company of marauders and this his impatient threat. Edna shrank against her husband, who cursed not taking a revolver along. Cousins snarled something in Italian.

From the grouping figures burst an answering snarl. The leader leaned forward and actually snatched at the string of pearls about Edna's throat. Jack thrust her back and planted a hard fist neatly in the attacker's face. The man went down, but—

At once five or six others leapt to the car. Edna screamed and hid her face. Jack strove to protect her and attack the ruffians at the same time. Cousins was whacking about to right and left. Things looked desperate. Then suddenly the gleam of

Adventures Of The Twins

Twins Are Chinese

Mr. Dubadub and Mr. Sprinkle-Blow rode on the magic umbrella to the Moon. Pretty soon Nancy and Nick saw them coming back again.

Nancy had been turned into a mischievous baby-doll and Nick into a wooden soldier by a purple fairy—a mischievous one—called Flap-Doodle. Flap-Doodle had stolen the Fairy Queen's wand.

"Well," remarked Nick stiffly, when the two fairy gentlemen had dumped off their magic steeds, "what did Flap-Doodle say?"

Mr. Dubadub reached into his pocket and pulled out a piece of wood like a toothpick.

"He gave us this," he remarked, "and said we'd all have to be satisfied. It's a splinter off the Fairy Queen's wand and can do a little bit of magic. Perhaps it will change you back again."

"Just wait, I'll make the wish," said Mr. Sprinkle-Blow, reaching for the splinter and was using it through the air. "Please," little splinter made Nancy and Nick into a boy and girl again.

"Oh," exclaimed Nancy. It's work-

Actress Is Cobbler In Spare Time

Cleo Maysfield Likes the Work and Saves Money in the Bargain

BY MARIAN HALE

Many of us can be our own milliners or dressmakers if the occasion demands, but Cleo Maysfield is the only woman I know who can be her own shoemaker as well.

When she needs new pumps she buys the raw materials—satin, suede or French kid—gets out her last and goes to work and makes them.

"I learned to make my own shoes in order to get what I wanted," she explained. "I got tired of trying to tell the shoemakers, most of whom did not speak my language and I couldn't speak theirs, what I wanted, so finally in desperation I got an Italian cobbler to teach me how to make them myself."

"I put in about a year of honest apprenticeship before I learned how to turn out the finished product, but it was worth it. Now I not only can copy any shoes I see, but I can carry out my original designs."

FIRST RUSSIAN BOOTS
Miss Maysfield has originated several styles in shoes. She made the first pair of Russian boots to be shown in this country, and she designed the shoe which laced in the back instead of the front.

She has made several pairs of riding boots, and during the war she made moccasins which were sent to soldiers instead of knitting socks.

"I hate knitting," she confessed. "I couldn't knit a pair of bedroom slippers for any amount of money, but long before I really learned to make shoes I used to make leather baby boots out of the tops of my old white kid gloves."

"Even now I frequently make a pair of slippers out of the good material in an old brocade evening frock or part of a discarded satin frock. By making my shoes out of the very best materials they wear splendidly."

ABOUT TEN DAYS

"It usually takes me about 10 days or more to make a pair, and during the year I make about a dozen pairs for myself, and several for my friends. Shoes that would cost me $15 in the shops I can make for about half that amount. And they give me double the service."

Miss Maysfield has another unusual fact. She is papering the billiard room of her summer home with canceled postage stamps.

During the year she saves all the stamps she gets on letters, and people who know of her find her large supplies of them. She mounts these on large squares of cardboard, which she tacks to the wall. This gives a queer mosaic effect that really is much more decorative than it sounds. She expects to complete the wall in the billiard room this year.

"I have to keep myself occupied when I'm not on the stage, and shoe-making and paperhanging seem best suited to my talents," she concluded.

TESTED RECIPES

STEAMED CRANBERRY PUDDING
By Bertha E. Shapleigh

- 1 1/2 cup butter
- 2 1/2 cup sugar
- 2 eggs
- 1 cup cranberries
- 1 1/2 cup milk
- 2 1/2 cups flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt

Work butter and sugar until creamy; add yolks of eggs, well beaten. Mix flour, baking powder and salt; add to butter, sugar, and egg yolks, alternately with the milk. Beat whites of eggs until stiff and fold into the batter; add cranberries, turn into a well-greased mold and steam for two hours. Serve with plain cream or hard sauce. If steamed in cups it will take an hour to cook.

POTATO AND TURNIP CROQUETTES

- 4 large potatoes
- 2 medium-sized yellow turnips
- 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 4 tablespoons butter
- 2 eggs
- Bread crumbs
- Fat for frying

Wash, pare and cook the potatoes and turnips in salted water. Drain and mash; add salt, pepper and butter. Add yolks of eggs, saving whites for dipping the croquettes. Beat the potato mixture well, then place in a pan to cool. Shape in cylinder form, roll in flour, dip in beaten whites of eggs, diluted with one-fourth cup cold water. Roll in sifted bread crumbs and fry until delicately brown in the hot fat. Drain thoroughly. Garnish with parsley.

LACQUERED CHAMEUSE

Lacquered black chameuse is used by some of the smart Parisian costumers to fashion stunning costumes. Frequently we find it relieved by white fur or black lace.

DEBUTANTE'S FROCK

A debutante gown of white chiffon and cobwebby white lace is trimmed with lacquered silver ribbon. The skirt is very long and full, and the bodice has a wide berth.

DISTINCTIVE

When dealing with a rich material like gold brocade over a rose and blue foundation the wisest thing to do is to refrain from trimming and let the interest be centered on the material. That's the way this gown was treated and it responded nobly.

The very simple drapery is caught up on the hip with a buckle and jeweled straps hold the bodice over the shoulders. The train is a onesided affair that attains very little in actual length, but a great deal of originality and distinction.

FOURTH PERSON IN N. Y. HAS MONEY IN BANK

New York—The popular idea that the term "New Yorker" is synonymous with prodigality in expenditures for unimportant things, extravagance in dress and style of living and outlay for bright light amusements, is refuted by some significant figures just compiled by the Merchants' Association.

On July 1, 1922, the savings banks of New York held on deposit $2,069,779,824.85, representing accounts of 1,680,625 depositors, or more than one out of every four of the entire population.

"These figures," said the statement, "are as significant relatively as positively. They prove that the habit of thrift among the wage earners in the city has grown enormously during the last twenty-five years."

"In 1897 the books of the New York savings banks showed deposits to a total of $529,907,247.75. The actual deposits in that period have therefore multiplied almost four times. Within the same period the number of depositors has increased from 1,222,366 to the total as indicated above. It is true that the increase in numbers of accounts is not commensurate with the increase in population, but a significant fact appears in the per capita comparison. The depositors of 1897 showed an average savings account of $432.51 while the depositors of today show an average savings deposit of $1,231.55.

"Those who analyze the significance of figures may draw various deductions of interest from these remarkable showings which are newly assembled, but any argument tending to show that New Yorkers in general are a wasteful lot would have some difficulty in maintaining itself unchallenged."

The pleated skirt of jersey, flannel and kasha, to be worn with the Russian or overblouse, is being shown for sports wear.

RURAL SCHOOLS TO CLOSE FOR THANKSGIVING DAY

Practically every school in the county will be closed on Thursday, Thanksgiving day, it being a legal holiday for schools, by reason of the president's and governor's proclamations. Buy Your Thanksgiving Poultry From Hopfensperger Bros. Inc. Markets

"There's a Difference"

This will be the biggest Poultry Sale we have ever had. The Sale begins Tuesday, November 28th.

We will have tons of Poultry on display at each market. This Poultry consists of the choicest birds which we have bought from people who make a specialty of raising Poultry. The raising, alone, of the Poultry does not give the deliciousness of flavor. There is a lot in the killing about which we take the utmost care that each fowl has its intestines drawn immediately when killed so that the odor of the intestines does not affect the meat.

There is Poultry appearing on the market each year with just the feathers off. This Poultry can be bought from the producer at much less than those having the intestines drawn when killed. But why pay for wasteful intestines when you can buy your Poultry drawn and heads off for less than the above?

Pay us a visit and be convinced.

Remember our Poultry prices will be in keeping with our Low Meat Prices of which we claim to be the originators.

Our Sale will demonstrate this to you.

Workers now are pouring concrete on the first floor of the new Catholic school. The building will be equivalent to three stories—the basement as a hall, the first floor the church and the second floor the school rooms. CLOSE SCHOOL.

There was no school Thursday in district No. 3 and 4. The teachers, Miss Ryan, Miss Winifred Cupps and Miss Lucille Self, attended the school board convention at Seymour.

A number of young people attended the J. W. Cornelius husking bee Wednesday night. A dance followed.

A box social and dance were given at district No. 2 school Friday evening. Mrs. Nick Romanesko is the teacher.

RETURNS TO WEST

Dick Left Hand Thunder, a Sioux Indian from Montana, who has been visiting here the past few months, has returned to the "wild and woolly" west. He says it is "too tame" here. Earl Slickles, a marine at Fort Au Prince, Haiti, writes to relatives here that the country now is having its winter there, which consists of a rain storm every day. He says Haitians make a drink equal to moonshine which they call "clairine." One of the marines tried a pint and was so crazy that they kept him in jail a week and in the hospital two weeks to get over it.

Mrs. John Vander Berg and son Melvin, 14, have returned from Milwaukee, where the latter had his eye treated. About eight years ago another small boy shot him in the left eye with a toy gun and divided the pupil of the eye, which has caused him trouble ever since. If the doctors now wear do not help, the doctor will take part of the eye to exclude the light.

Martin Diederich has returned from Long Lake with a large buck which he shot while hunting the past week.

Louis Elm entered a plea of guilty to the charge of being drunk and disorderly when arraigned before Justice Thomas E. Howlett in Green Bay. He was committed to jail for 30 days.

SWEDISH AUTO TAX WILL BUILD BETTER ROADS

Stockholm—Swedish motorists will begin to pay taxes on their vehicles and tires on Jan. 1, 1923. Tourists from foreign countries, however, may still bring their own cars into the country and roam about at will for as much as twelve months without any charge whatsoever.

The new auto tax, which is to be applied to the repairing and improvements of roads in Sweden, is levied on cars and tires according to their weight. Each car using rubber tires is taxed 8 kronor for every hundred kilograms or fraction thereof, which amounts to about $1 per hundred pounds. The tires are taxed 1.50 krona for every kilogram of weight. Tires in use at the beginning of next year will be exempt, and in the case of pneumatic tires, two extras will be exempt.

ON THE SCREEN

FOX "THE FAST MAIL" A RIOT OF THRILLS

If you go to the Elite theatre today or tomorrow knowing what to expect in the feature you will probably get considerable entertainment out of "The Fast Mail," and if you don't know what to expect it is at least an unqualified certainty that you will get a thrill, several of them, in fact, from sitting through it.

"The Fast Mail," which is a picture of Lincoln J. Carter's well-known melodrama of that name, is the wildest, wooliest, rip-roaring motion picture that has flickered across the silver sheet these many days.

If there is anything whatsoever in the field of melodrama of the ultra-mellow variety that was overlooked in the screening of this film it has not yet been discovered. It begins with some fast "drammer" speeds up in the second reel and then goes on ever faster and more furious until that time honored and well-known subtitle is flashed on the screen, "When Dreams Come True," or something like that.

Just an inkling as to what is in store for those who go to see "The Fast Mail." Our hero is a stalwart westerner, from that land "where men are men." In a steeplesheer he is fouled and thrown from his horse by the brother of his sweetheart. He forces a confession, holds up the "frame-up" gang at the point of a gun and grabs the money they have won in order to return it to the loser.

In the melee one of them is snout, and then the merry pursuit of one of the men as murderer begins. First there is a chase on horseback, during the course of which the hero vaults over some railway gates in the very teeth of a train. Then there is a pursuit on steamboats, with the hero leaping from one to the other to get the hard-hearted villain, and hatching a plan just before the boiler explodes.

The villain escapes, reaches land and an automobile. The hero pursues, first by handcar, from which he jumps to the fast mail, then by that train, from which he in turn jumps to an automobile, and then into the very heart of the villain's gang center, where he jars the entire place loose, lays out everybody in sight, and in some wildfire scenes saves his sweetheart from the top floor and another villain.

The cast is well chosen, with Charles Jones, Eileen Percy, James Mason, William Steele, Adolph Menjou and Harry Dunkinson in the leading roles.

"The Valley of Silent Men"

Proving itself to be one of the most vigorous photoplays seen here is many months, "The Valley of Silent Men," a Cosmopolitan production for Paramount, featuring Alma Reubens, was greeted with marked demonstrations of approval by a large assemblage of picture fans at Fischer's Appleton theatre last night. It was filmed in the Rocky Mountains of Canada, in the precise spot described by James Oliver Curwood in his celebrated novel upon which the picture is based.

SWEDISH AUTO TAX WILL BUILD BETTER ROADS

Stockholm—Swedish motorists will begin to pay taxes on their vehicles and tires on Jan. 1, 1923. Tourists from foreign countries, however, may still bring their own cars into the country and roam about at will for as much as twelve months without any charge whatsoever.

The new auto tax, which is to be applied to the repairing and improvements of roads in Sweden, is levied on cars and tires according to their weight. Each car using rubber tires is taxed 8 kronor for every hundred kilograms or fraction thereof, which amounts to about $1 per hundred pounds. The tires are taxed 1.50 krona for every kilogram of weight. Tires in use at the beginning of next year will be exempt, and in the case of pneumatic tires, two extras will be exempt.

Cause of Wellesley Furore

Hikers, Auto Drivers Both Need Caution

Hey there, Mr. Automobilist, did you ever nearly run into a hiker or a group of hikers on the road? Would you rather drive through a herd of cows than pass a group of hikers? Both of you are at fault and surely there should be enough room on the road for your little tin Lizzie and a half hundred hikers.

A few rules for hikers and motorists have been suggested by some veteran hikers who occasionally come near being bumped off the road by careless drivers. The safest place for hikers on the highways is at the left side of the road so that the automobiles which pass them come from in front of them, not from the rear, these hikers say. Most automobile drivers will turn out for hikers, although there are some who seem willing to run them down if they do not get off the road.

There are occasions, however, when the driver cannot turn out for the hiker and then it is time for the hiker to be not only courteous but also to play safe. If a car is coming from behind, the automobile coming toward the hikers on the left side of the road cannot turn out. It is a pretty safe suggestion to the walkers that if a car does not turn out that they hop off the road themselves.

STATE ISSUES LOANS ON VALUES BASED ON RYE

By Associated Press
Oldenburg—A literal application is being given here to the poetic phraseology "golden grain." Operating on the principle that "rye is gold" the state of Oldenburg is issuing "rye money" on the following basis.

The state needs 150,000,000 marks. In order to raise that sum notes will be used bearing a specific value in rye. Whoever acquires one of these notes will pay whatever is the current market value of the amount of rye in which it is quoted, together with a fixed rate of interest. The notes are to be redeemable after four years. If rye is then worth ten times as present value, the holder will realize tenfold on his note, and similarly will lose if the rye market has slumped.

As rye is now selling, the note issue of 150,000,000 marks will be equivalent to approximately 53,600 centners (about 165,286 bushels) of rye. This is considered an extraordinarily small quantity compared with the usual Oldenburg harvest.

LEGION MAKING EDUCATION WEEK CITYWIDE EVENT

Churches Will Open Program With Special Services on Coming Sunday

National education week opening on Sunday and continuing through Dec. 9 will be observed in Appleton through arrangements perfected by Oney Johnston post of the American Legion. There is to be no public mass meeting but churches, schools and organizations will take up the week's program in order to concentrate thought on education and the school problems especially as they relate to patriotism and Americanization.

The national department of the American Legion inaugurated the movement as one means of furthering Americanization work. Cooperation has been extended by the National Educational association.

H. B. Little is chairman of the committee of the post which met Monday afternoon to outline its program. Others on the committee are R. A. Peterson, Dr. W. E. McPherson, James Whelan and Don C. Dickinson.

Pastors in most of the Appleton churches have consented to devote their sermons to this subject on Sunday or to refer to it in their services. Some are arranging special programs for the opening of the week.

Principals have mapped out programs in their schools most of them taking up the legion outline of observance. Emphasis will be placed on visitation by parents in the hope that almost all will spend an hour or two in the classrooms sometime during the week. The public also will be urged to give more thought to the higher high school problem and lend their assistance in its solution.

Topics to be taken up on the respective days as announced by Mr. Little are: Monday citizenship Tuesday patriotism Wednesday school and teacher day Thursday literacy Friday equality of opportunity Saturday physical education.

In the first district school the Parent Teachers association will take up these subjects at its meeting on Monday evening of the coming week. Thursday and Friday will be visitation days.

Second district schools have announced no special program. Third district will take up the week's program as outlined and will hold exercises which will stress patriotism. All parents will be urged to visit the school. No programs will be conducted in the lower grades but the legion topics will be taken up in the upper grades.

Fourth district will combine educational week and safety first week and arrange its programs accordingly. A mimeographed letter will be sent to all parents inviting them to visit the school. No programs will be conducted in the lower grades but the legion topics will be taken up in the upper grades.

Victory Spoils Include Extra Day Of Vacation

"Hooray for our football team!" is what every homeward bound Lawrence student should say when he leaves Appleton on Tuesday. Because of the victorious football season in which Lawrence won claim to not only the Little Five conference championship but also the Tri-state championship, the entire student body was "treated" by Dr. Samuel Plantz president, to an extra day of vacation.

The last classes were held at 3:30 on Tuesday but many of the students who had no afternoon classes were able to get away early in the afternoon. Meals will be served at the dormitories during vacation for those students who live too far away to go home for a weekend.

CAN'T MAR CITY'S BEAUTY WITH ASHES ON CURBINGS

Unightly piles of ashes in the streets and on the parkways near the curb are a violation of a city ordinance and the ordinance is to be enforced, it was announced by O. P. Weissgerber, street commissioner Tuesday.

The city does not remove ashes, but it is necessary for each resident to make provision for storing ashes in some place other than the streets, the engineer said.

TOMORROW IS DAY OF ANNUAL HIGH AUCTION

Townpeople Are Invited to Bid on Foods at Big Charity Event of Year

"What am I bid for this beautiful box of candy? As the box is beautiful, so is the candy. $5? I am bid a measly little $5 for this box? That all? $10? Well, that's more like it. I am bid $10 for this box of candy. $10.50? Someone over here says $10.75. Thank you, lady, $11 is more like it for this box of candy. $11. I am bid $11. All done? All done? Sold to this lady right down here, one beautiful box of candy for $11."

Such is the line that Lee C. Rasey, principal of Appleton high school, and Harry Clark, instructor in the history and civics department, will use for hours on Wednesday afternoon when hundreds of cakes and many pounds of candy and more than 1,000 doughnuts will be auctioned off at Armory G. The auction to which the public is especially invited will begin at 2 o'clock and will continue until everything good to eat has been sold for hard cash. High school students and townspeople who have been there before know that besides an afternoon of purchasing good things to eat, it will be an afternoon of "side splitting" fun.

All donations for the auction were being sent to the high school on Tuesday and will be sent there on Wednesday morning also. Final arrangements for pools, both of students and of townspeople, were being made on Tuesday and everything was in readiness for the biggest charity event of the year.

The money which is raised annually at this auction is used to fill barrels for needy families. Purchases are now being made of staple groceries and clothing for more than 40 families whose needs have been thoroughly investigated by various social agencies in the city. The delivery of the barrels will be made Wednesday evening.

PROMISE FUN FOR ALL KIDS IN CITY AT 'Y' THURSDAY

Races, Movies and Short Program Will Fill Dull Period Before Dinner

All boys in Appleton who find time hanging heavy on their hands from the time they get up Thursday morning until they are seated before the richly browned turkey or chicken on the home table will be treated to some excitement and an attractive entertainment program by the boys' division of the Y. M. C. A.

Every boy in Appleton is invited to be at the Y. M. C. A. at 9 o'clock to share in the program. The plan is to dismiss at 11:30 so all may be at home in time to claim the dumplings before brother or sister gets them.

A relay race is to be staged between teams representing the grade schools. The course will be from the Y. M. C. A. to Brookway hall on Lawrence street and the winning team will be awarded a pennant.

A cross country race then will be staged over the 3-mile circle across Johnst bridge, through the south side and back over Lake-st bridge. High school boys will be the contestants and a live goose or chicken will be given the winner. The races will be staged at 9 o'clock and the contestants will be permitted to use the shower bath afterward.

One reel of comedy movies will be shown in the building at 10:30 and a short talk will follow. W. S. Ford will be the speaker and will explain the meaning of Thanksgiving.

PARIS CONSIDERS BAN ON PRIZE FIGHTING

By Associated Press

Paris—A motion asking the Prefect of Police to bar boxing forever from Parisian rings has been introduced and will come up for discussion in the Paris municipal council. Alderman Luquet is sponsor for the measure and among his arguments in favor of his proposed by-law is the following:

"Why should a duel with fists be permitted when duels with swords or pistols are forbidden?"

Mr. Luquet kindly refrains from adding that many boxing matches held in Paris lately have caused more damage to the participants than the majority of the duels. Carpenter had ten chances to one of coming through a duel with pistols unscathed. A little prick from the tip of a disinfected sword would have caused the referee to call the fight, in the event of a meeting on the field of honor.

Another point which Mr. Luquet makes is that the school children of Paris, owing to the publicity given to pugilistic encounters, all imagine that when they reach twenty years of age they will be champions of France and Navarre, with the result that they are devoting more time to flattening the noses and cauliflowering the ears of their comrades than to the study of the classics or modern science.

GIRL CONFESSES SENDING POISON

what she said was a remark made by Mrs. Henry Schneider, sister-in-law of Frank Schneider, husband of the dead woman, casting reflections on her character. Upon learning of the death of Mrs. Schneider, she is alleged to have said in her confession, she immediately went to the Frank Schneider home and managed to obtain the box that contained the candy and the wrapping. Disappearance of these articles previously had been laid to the Schneider children who were thought to have destroyed them.

SIGNS CONFESSION

A summary of the purported confession follows: Mrs. Henry Schneider had spread reports about the community that I attended a dance with Frank Schneider. This was not true. She also said that Frank Schneider was responsible for my condition and called me vile names. It worried me for no longer a time that I could not sleep. Finally I bought some strychnine at McGrath's drug store at Chilton, telling the clerk that I wanted it to kill rats. Then on Sunday, Nov. 19, I bought some candy at Mahler's at Jericho. On Monday I fixed up the package and gave it to the mail carrier. I thought I had directed it to Mrs. Henry Schneider and did not realize my mistake until I had heard of the death of Mrs. Frank Schneider. I did not want to kill Mrs. Henry Schneider but only wanted to make her feel sick. I broke the chocolate bar in two and put a little strychnine in it, then closed the candy up again. I had no feeling of ill will against Mrs. Frank Schneider.

ECHO OF TRIANGLE

Miss Lenz was brought to the office of District Attorney Arms shortly after noon on Monday and maintained her innocence even in the face of witnesses who identified her as the person who bought the chocolate bar and poison at Chilton. She also denied she was the author of the letter sent with the poison package and to which was forged the name of Mrs. Henry Schneider. The letter disappeared at the same time as did the candy box and wrapper.

Suspicion was directed toward Miss Lenz after the district attorney was told of her visit to the Frank Schneider home shortly after the death of the woman. The Schneider home is

BRIESE WILL BE IN 'TURKEY DAY' GRIDIRON BATTLE

Nothing to Hint That He Will Not Play, High School Authorities Say

High school authorities today issued a statement declaring that intention made public Monday that Harold Briese, captain of the high school football team, would not be in Thursday's game, is without foundation. They also denied that Briese did not report for practice on Saturday, declaring that he has been extremely punctual in attending the workouts.

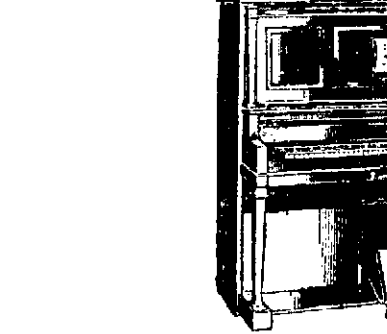

The following statement was issued Tuesday by Lee C. Rasey, principal of the high school, concerning Briese and Thursday's game.

"There has been no thought on the part of the high school authorities that Briese will not play in the Beatrice game. Briese has been the outstanding star of the high school team this year, and an exceptionally dependable captain. His influence on the team has been the best; he works hard and regularly. Those who have watched him of late expect that he will play the best game of his high school experience against Beatrice."

directly across the road from the Lenz farm. Investigation also revealed that Miss Lenz was employed at the Frank Schneider home several years ago when one of the Schneider children was born, but was requested to leave when Mrs. Schneider is said to have discovered that Anna was attempting to "vaamp" her husband. Authorities say that this angle which led to a feeling of animosity between the two women had no connection with the sending of the candy.

Who Ever Had Money Enough At Christmas Time?

When Christmas buying starts there are Edith and Mary and Harry and Jimmie and a host of others who must be "remembered."

What a formidable list it is — who ever had enough money for Christmas shopping?

At this time of year many people sort of take an inventory of their store room and make a list of the things which are no longer useful.

It is quite amazing how people will save things and never have the slightest use for them from one year's end to another. By selling such articles through the want ad columns, each and every one of them may be turned into cash. Isn't that a good suggestion for increasing that Christmas fund? Think it over! ARE BEHIND THE HIGH SCHOOL TEAM!

THE BIG INTER-SECTIONAL FOOTBALL GAME

Appleton High School

VS

Beatrice Nebraska High School

Thanksgiving Day at Lawrence Field

GAME CALLED AT 2:30 P. M.

PROCLAMATION

On Thursday afternoon, Nov. 30, a mighty football team from Beatrice, Neb., will match its wits and brawn with Appleton high school on Lawrence field. Both teams are among the strongest in their states, with records to which they can point with pride. Regardless of all other considerations, it will be a game worthwhile attending.

But there are other considerations which should prompt every man and woman to witness the contest. Pride in their sons, pride in their school and in their city should be sufficient to induce everyone in Appleton to show by his attendance, that he is heart and soul with the team in its fight to uphold the prestige of our city. This game will be more than a contest between two football teams; it will be a meeting of two cities in two states. It has fallen to the lot of Appleton to uphold the state of Wisconsin as against the state of Nebraska.

In view of these considerations, I, Henry Reuter, as Mayor of Appleton, call upon each and every citizen of our city to show by his attendance at Lawrence field on Thursday afternoon, Nov. 30, that he is a supporter of our football team. I urge the businessmen of Appleton to make a special effort to give publicity to the game and I call upon the people at large to help our boys uphold our city's reputation as a community of civic boosters.

Football Is Elixir of Youth

APPLETON high school football team on Thursday afternoon, November 30, will wind up its 1922 season with the greatest game of the year. Beatrice, Neb., high school, contender for the championship of its state and one of the most powerful teams of the west, will come here in an effort to make it two straight wins over the local school. Last year Appleton was defeated 25 to 0 on the Beatrice home field.

City officers, professional men, business men and the plain, ordinary citizens are joining hands to make this the greatest athletic occasion in the history of Appleton. Mayor Henry Reuter has issued a proclamation calling attention to the fact that the high school is Appleton's, a part of the city, and that it is deserving of support in its effort to uphold the city's prestige. He is urging everyone to attend the game to show by his attendance that he is backing the boys.

Football is the greatest sport in America today—greater than baseball, greater than golf, yes even greater than the great indoor sport of "ten cent limit." No other sport arouses even a fraction of the enthusiasm which attends a football game. The cheering, the colors, the slashing, driving forces on the gridiron are reminders of our youth, stirring up memories of the days when we were boys and matched our skill and our strength with anyone who cared to make the test. Football speeds up the flow of our blood, exhilarates our emotions, throws off our restraint and makes us so far forget our every day dignity that we slap strangers on the back and yell like a pack of kids. No man who loves football ever will grow old. It is a young man's game and can be enjoyed only by young men—not young in age but young in enthusiasm and spirit. Football is a tonic which puts new life in our bloodstream and takes the kinks out of our imagination. Football is a restorer of youth, easy of access and capable of being thoroughly enjoyed while it is being taken.

Appleton and Beatrice will play the kind of a game that packs all the thrills of gridiron history in one afternoon. Both teams are fast, both have outstanding stars and both will throw caution to the winds in an effort to wind up the season with a glorious victory. Both teams have a number of men who are playing their last high school games and they will be ready to sacrifice everything in this final attempt.

Prospects for a wonderful football game, civic pride, and an afternoon of recreation are among the factors which should compel a great attendance at the game. Appleton will have fallen far behind the record of Beatrice if less than 10,000 people see the struggle. It is a fine chance for everyone to forget his differences with everyone else and to shout for their common favorites when they line up for the kickoff on Thanksgiving day afternoon.

Turnover--Profit--Reputation

Schweger plays his last game for the high school on Thanksgiving day. He plays both guard and tackle positions equally well. He is regarded as one of the most consistent players on the team. His loss will be severely felt next year, Coach Denney says.

Beat Beatrice And Grid Season Will Be Success, Feeling At High School

Football Warriors Have Been Looking Forward To Thanksgiving Day Game From Start Of Season—Evenly Matched

If Appleton high school can beat Beatrice in their second annual Turkey day struggle here Thursday afternoon it will count the 1922 season an outstanding success in spite of the two defeats it suffered. All season the boys have been looking forward to the battle with the Nebraskans and the chance to even up the score with the western team. For weeks the squad has been pointed for the Thanksgiving day game; new plays have been developed and a defense against the wonderful passing game of the westerners has been worked up.

Appleton got off to a most auspicious start this fall and there were many predictions that any team which could beat the Blue and Orange would be entitled to the state championship. The squad was made up largely of veterans and under the able coaching of Arthur Denney, it was expected to bring the long coveted state title to this city.

The first games contained every indication of championship calibre. Manitowish was trampled under a 46 to 0 score in the first encounter of the season and a lot of substitutes were run up. Antigo, which defeated the Blue and Orange last year, was the second victim, succumbing to a 47 to 3 score and again substitutes picked up the battle when the regulars had wiped the gridiron with their opponents. Kaukauna was next and they went down under a 39 to 0 landslide on their own field.

West Green Bay managed to score a single touchdown against Denney's men but in the meantime the home crew was piling up 12 points so Green Bay's 7 didn't amount to much.

With this wonderful record behind them, the boys took the field against Marinette, their ancient foe and lost their first game. The local squad was unable to get started, it looked like fight and Marinette got off to a rousing start, scoring two touchdowns in the first period. After that Appleton perked up but the boys were unable to stop the cocky northerners who romped off the field with a 19 to 0 victory under their belts.

The defeat, however, failed to take the heart out of the boys. The following Monday they went back to work with more spirit than ever and a week later they made a wonderful comeback, walloping the Menominee, Mich., team by a score of 13 to 6 on the Menominee field. It was a wonderful battle, with the Blue and Orange leading all the way. All the old fight had returned and the boys played their best game of the year.

The next Saturday saw Denney's team lined up against another old foe—Oshkosh high school. Appleton hadn't won a game from the Sawdust city for so long that it had almost escaped memory but they made amends for their past beatings by trimming the Indians to the tune of 65 to 6. The Oshkosh touchdown was a gift and would never have been scored if the game had been close. It was in that game that Briese made his spectacular run of 104 yards for a touchdown after a kickoff.

A week ago Saturday saw Denney's team take the field against another jinx—East Green Bay. Two years ago the Baymen put Appleton out of the championship running by beating them on Green Bay's field last year the Blue and Orange evened up by walloping the Bay team.

This year's game was played in a field of mud a decided disadvantage to the fast Appleton squad. They were unable to get their open plays started and the heavy Green Bay line withstood all attempts to pierce it. Fisher, one of Denney's star linemen suffered a broken rib but continued to play in spite of his injuries. But even that kind of spirit could not overcome the handicap of a slimy, slippery field and Appleton lost, 21 to 0.

But these old scores will be forgotten if Beatrice is beaten on Thursday. That is the ambition of every member of the team and every student of the high school. "Beat Beatrice" is all one hears about the high school building. It has become a shibboleth.

Practice for the last week has been of the most grueling kind. Coach Denney has had the boys on the gridiron every hour they could spare from their studies so there will be no alibi of lack of condition

RUDOLPH FISHER

It takes a pretty gritty footballer to play the greater part of a game with one of his ribs broken but that is what Fisher did at Green Bay. What's more he is going to play on Thursday. Fisher is a whale of a tackle and the beauty of it is he will be back again next year.

GEORGE KLEIN

This scrappy youngster played a substitute line position this year and he will be back at 'em again next season. Klein is a born fighter who never knows when he is licked. He is especially good on the defense, often crashing through to spill the opposition before it gets started.

Let's Go Appleton "Foot Ball is the Grand Old Sport"

WALTER HEIDEMAN

"Snooky" is a senior and therefore will be lost to the team next year. He is substitute quarterback and one of the peppiest players on the team. Heideman is a little fellow but he makes up for his lack of size by his pep and his headwork. He is an excellent passer.

CLARENCE VERSTEEGEN

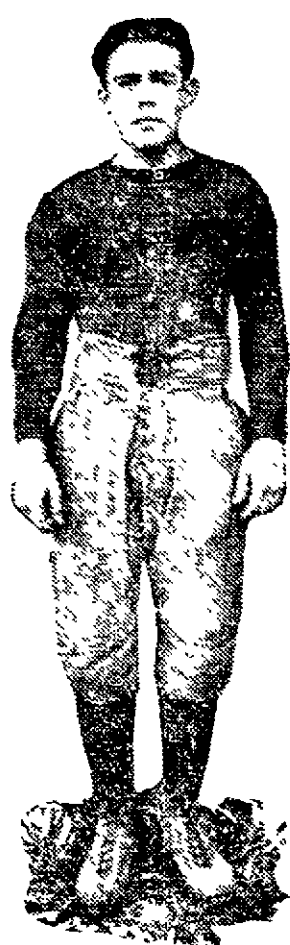

This young man, who will play his last game for Appleton on Thanksgiving day, is one of the scrappiest players on the team. He is a half-back this year but he is equally good on the end. There is a chance that he will play an end position against Beatrice on Thursday.

High School Loses 12 of Its Star Gridders By Graduation In 1923

Coach Denney's Team Will be Scrapped After Thanksgiving Day Game With Beatrice
On Lawrence Field.

One of the best football teams developed at Appleton high school in several years will be scrapped after Thursday's game with Beatrice, Neb., on Lawrence field. Twelve men on Denney's squad will play their last high school game on that day. Most of the men who are leaving school next June are stars in their positions and their passing will be a most severe blow.

That these men who are making their final effort on the gridiron for their high school will put everything they have in this last battle goes without saying. They have little to lose, inasmuch as it is the last game of the season, and everything to gain by going into the scrap with every ounce of their strength and determination.

In Beatrice they will meet a team also made up largely of men who will play their last high school game on Thanksgiving day. Purdy, the great western star is one of these men. He undoubtedly will attempt to end his high school grid career with a halo of glory about him and spectators can expect some of the most sensational work ever seen on Lawrence field.

ALL ARE GOOD MEN

It is hard to say which of the 12 men graduating next June will be missed most by the high school team. Harold Bries, Robert Bonini, Donald Stark, Roger Ashman, Clarence Versteegen and the rest are all dependable men, fighters to the last ditch and real football players.

Bries has been on the team for four years. He is considered one of the best halfbacks ever developed at the high school and is on par with the best backfield men in this part of Wisconsin. Bries, if his leg doesn't go back on him, should make good on any college team in the country.

Big "Bob" Bonini's loss will be a terrible blow to the team. Bob's size, his strength and his ability to go over the line at the opposing quarterback has made him one of the most feared men in high school circles in the state. His reputation is state wide and always the opposing team is told to "watch out for Bonini." Bob has been on the team for three years. He ought to make a whale of a college player. Roger Ashman and Dudley Verwey are Denney's two star ends who will answer to the call of graduation. Both men are fast and scrappy. Ashman has been out for football two years and has developed into a fine player, especially on defense. He also has shown considerable skill in grabbing forward passes. Verwey is playing his first year of football and is quite light but he is a fighter and that goes a long way. It is said that opposing teams quickly give up the idea that they can gain around his end.

A GREAT LINEMAN

No better lineman has ever been trained at high school than Donald Stark. He is a quiet unassuming sort of a chap who does a lot but makes so little noise about it that he is given but little credit. Stark is good enough to make almost any team in the country. If there is such a thing as an all state high school team picked this year Stark surely is entitled to one of the line positions. No better tackle can be found anywhere in Wisconsin than this lad.

The high school will have to do some scouting to get another fullback like Bill Tappert. After making a name for himself in the line he was shifted into the backfield where he raised havoc with the enemy until they declared him ineligible on pretty flimsy grounds. Bill can toss the football like a baseball, swift and with great accuracy. He is going to be a hard man to replace and is sure to give Beatrice a lot of trouble in his final battle. Coach Denney will lose another backfield man in Clarence Versteegen who has been going pretty good in the second line. He has played two years and made exceptionally good as an end. Merrill Scheil and John Schiebler both out their last year will be lost by graduation. They are hardworking linemen who have been giving good service.

TWO QUARTERBACKS LEAVE

Coach Denney will have to develop a new quarterback because of the graduation of Stewart Mills and Walter Heideman. Mills is Denney's regular choice with Heideman as a substitute. Both are dependable players. Boyd Schweiger, playing his first year this season is another lineman to be lost next spring. The youngster showed a lot of versatility when he took Bonini's place at center in the Menominee game. Bonini's injured leg would not let him get into that contest.

ARNOLD HILLMAN

All that has kept "Arnie" off the regular lineup this year is the fact that Coach Denney has an abundance of ends. Hillman is a substitute end who has a lot of credit due him. When he gets into the game he fights for all that is in him. Arnie is a junior this year.

VICTOR KAMPS

This youngster tips the beam at about 170 pounds and gives the enemy something to worry about. He is lacking a little in experience and has been used as a substitute in the line. Kamps has some time left in school and he ought to make a bearcat when he is more experienced.

ROGER ASHMAN

Ashman is one of the best ends Appleton has had in years. He is a sure tackler and can bring passes down with ease. He will be lost to the school by graduation this year. Ashman has been an important factor in defensive work in every game played by the high school this season.

Wall Street Love • • by Jack Lait

POETS have garlanded love with the wild flowers of God's great outdoors; they have backgrounded it with the hurly burly of heroic, chaotic war; they have guided it with the green and yellow and blue of society; they have high lighted it with mighty ranks and tall titles; they have ennobled it with humanitarian causes and they have surrounded it with stage effects; they have studded it in castles and snuggled it in cottages; they have crossed deadlines and oceans and borders and breeds. But they have strangely "laid off" the most flourishing beehives of cupid's honey-making—the American offices.

Wherever the genders meet, there is romance. And nowhere do they meet in such close and constant propinquity as in the workrooms of commerce—any kind of commerce. Business is business and most folks attend to their business. But men and women are so constituted, congenitally, that they can work typewriters, adding machines, checkbooks, switchboards, loose-leaf systems, dictagraphs and cash registers, and still let love warm up, percolate and bubble over.

For every girl who marries a boy she meets in church, six marry those they meet in their daily work; for every man who marries his school-days sweetheart, eight marry their stenographers or their bosses' stenographers (or secretaries, as they want to be known since they have short skirts, votes and bobbed hair); for every girl whose heart is twinged by a matinee idol or a celluloid celebrity, exactly eighty-one sigh over the bookkeeper (these days called the auditor), the sales manager, the shipping clerk (now called the superintendent of traffic), the floor-walker (now denominated the department manager), or the chief clerk (now conceded to be the office manager.)

The principal reason that stops most men and most women from getting together is that they have no plausible alibi for talking to one another. Flirting, while still practised, is and always will be bad form. There are probably a million eye acquaintances in the subway in New York every day which would grow to friendships and goodness knows what if the lips weren't afraid to say what the eyes shout. But if the men who eye the women worked in the same enclosures with the women who eye them back, department or interdepartment business would rapidly make the contact; and contact is exactly seventy-four per cent of romance.

Therefore, everything considered, was it any wonder that Theodore Roosevelt Reed was painfully, pitifully, palpitatingly infatuated with Gloria Hall Callahan?

Gloria was beautiful, Gloria was trim, Gloria was twenty; Theodore was single, Theodore was successful, Theodore was fourteen.

Gloria was the file-clerk and Theodore was the messenger for a Wall Street bond house. It was an establishment of the character that, had it served Dickens for a setting, he would have visualized it as musty and dusty and substantial and venerated, with a bony-handed amanuensis and a meek old ledger-keeper. But in this age of snap and whizz, the honorable brokers gupped their respectable clients in a sheen framework of mahogany and beveled glass, dotted with desks and cases to match, on the seventeenth story of a skyscraper, overlooking the Statue of Liberty, the Woolworth Building, the City Hall, the Jersey shore, and Trinity Church.

Theodore's term of service ante-dated Gloria's. He was a veteran of the organization, having joined it and cemented its solidity some four months before Gloria had tripped in to upset his equilibrium, to heal his heart and then to mutilate it.

Theodore had been considerably sweet on Hildegard, Gloria's predecessor in office. But Hildegard had gone and married one of the dudes in the real estate securities department, and was now keeping house in New Rochelle, in a dwelling with flowers in front, clotheslines behind, and a mortgage all over.

When Hildegard had staggered Theodore with the dispassionate news that she was leaving, Theodore had experienced his first great sorrow. But when Gloria breezed in on the following Monday morning, he forgot Hildegard just as soon as he had found time to pull a good sneer behind the back of the dude in the real estate securities department; ha-ha, the dude was hooked for life with a chromo, and he, Theodore, had the world before him with a dream.

Theodore immediately laid siege. It wasn't two days before he had told Gloria that she had a pug nose, had tickled the back of her neck with a pencil, and had otherwise put under way that onslaught of the wolves in store clothing which awaits the pretty working girl so soon as she ventures, in her struggle for bread and lip-rouge, to step one dainty dog into the dens of Business.

Gloria, however, had worked before. She had, in her brief two years' career as a filer, laid away in the archives of office records, bills of lading, bills of divorce, invoices, income tax work-sheets, fiscal recapitulations, bankruptcy petitions and other light fiction. She was the filing filly, a filologist who could show any kind of a document its place, who could hide any portfolio in any cabinet.

So the unmistakable campaign of Theodore Roosevelt Reed, who, under the flimsy guise of business, was pressing his personal advances on her, did not throw her into any perceptible panic. She told him he was a fresh little shrimp, to which he returned that it was better to be fresh than stale, and the battle for a girl's heart—perhaps for her honor—was on.

Theodore looked at Gloria from every angle, and he admitted to himself that she was probably the handsomest and most exquisite creation that had ever volplaned from the great blue dome of heaven to the asphalt upholstered footstool of earth. Her eyes, her hair, her hands, her arms, her figure, her ways, her teeth, her feet, her lips, her clothes, her perfume—they were all perfect.

Theodore loved her so hard that it hurt. He was bruised all over inside, and right near his right ear, where Gloria had smacked him when he told her Frank Peters was mushy over Clare Temple. Peters was the assistant advertising manager, and Clare was the telephone operator.

"Go on, you're goofy over Peters, yourself," he shot at her, while the region near the ear still tingled.

"You're beany," she retorted. But Theodore didn't like the way she had said it—there didn't seem to be any heart in it.

Next day he noticed Gloria smiling at Peters twice, and once talking to him en passant, in the hallway which ran along the offices. Theodore made it a point to lean his elbow on the switchboard and converse volubly with Clare. His diplomacy was aimed to get a rise out of Gloria, but it was a flop, for she never even noticed it. So he called her attention to it.

"I was talking to Clare a few minutes ago," he let fall, carelessly.

Gloria went right on, depositing correspondence where Sherlock Holmes couldn't ever find it again.

"She said Peters was gonna buy a car."

Gloria spun around.

"How did she know?" she asked.

"Oh, she knows lots—anyways, about Peters. They been thick a long while—long before you come here."

"You're a fresh little shrimp," said Gloria.

"I'd rather be fresh than stale," countered Theodore.

But he felt far from fresh. Gloria loved Peters, that was plain; he hadn't lived more than fourteen years for nothing, and he had seen many a movie. And she didn't care for Theodore Roosevelt Reed, that was just as plain, because she hadn't resented or even spilled any cracks about his buzzing Clare.

When he went to bed that night he rolled and rolled, and tossed and tossed.

Theodore was not a man to lightly let his Gloria slip through his burning fingers, especially into the alien arms of that feeble-minded fish, Peters. A fish has no arms you will say; but Theodore was in no humor for splitting scales or drawing rhetorical distinctions. The situation was grave, it was ominous, it was awful.

Gloria had been immune against his best work. She had never given him a tumble. She had slapped him, yes; but that had been about Peters, too, and, therefore, not to be counted as a victory. He had offered her gum and she had accepted it; but—how? She had taken it as she might have taken it from anyone. Even Hildegard, when he used to give her gum, would say "Teddy, you're a riot." Not Gloria. He was no riot in her life. This Peters, most likely, had never given her any gum, or even the coupon wrapper off a package of gum. But she smiled at him—sure; that slick-haired baboon got everything. And now he was going to have a car.

He Admitted to Himself That She Was Probably the Handsomest and Most Exquisite Creation That Had Ever Volplaned from the Great Blue Dome of Heaven to the Asphalt Upholstered Footstool of Earth.

A car! What was to stop him from inviting Gloria to go riding with him? What, indeed?

This Peters must be thwarted.

Theodore thought over every wild scheme whereby he might get Peters fired. But none seemed to click. Peters was

(C) 1921, International Feature Service, Inc.

He knew a certain gun in a certain pawnshop. He had often looked at it in the window. It could be negotiated for seven dollars. It was a six-shooter that looked as though it could make a nice, thick hole through anybody, certainly through a thin lizard like Peters.

He could lie in wait for him out in Flatbush, where he lived. Theodore knew just where Peters lived, for he had once delivered a package to his house. Peters had given him the change from a quarter, fifteen cents. At the time Theodore had appreciated that. But, now! Ah—what a dramatic idea—that very fifteen cents would go into the seven dollars to buy the pistol with which he would avenge himself for the stolen love of Gloria and wipe out the skinny snake-in-the-grass who had leaped into his life to drag Gloria from him. Snakes do not leap, but little did Theodore care whether they did or not. This one would leap—and leap pretty, when the bullet hit him and he heard, hissed into his ear as he passed away:

"You will make a rotten play for Gloria, will you? Well, then, die like a dog!"

You can't hiss that speech—but Theodore could.

But—Peters' body. He couldn't leave it lying there, on the Flatbush sidewalk. Theodore hadn't read detective stories without learning something, for the love of Mike. His jealousy of Peters had been pronounced. Both Gloria and Clare could testify to that—and would; girls always broke down on the witness stand or before the brutal third degree, and these would probably not even wait to break down, because he was satisfied that both were moonny over this skinny crab, Peters.

Further, the man who sold the gun would identify him. They always did. He wouldn't dare carry the gun with its empty chamber and its evidences of having been freshly fired—what-ever those evidences were, they usually showed up in the mystery stories. No, he must dispose of Peters' remains and the weapon, too.

How about the river? It was a long haul from Peters' house to either the river or the ocean, and it would be a risky job, not to say a tiring one, to drag the limp carcass of the murdered monster for miles; besides, someone might get nosy and want to know what he was dragging.

Sewer? How could he open one. A sewer was pretty fine stuff. Theodore had seen plenty of them open, but how were they opened? It took a crowbar, at least. How could he conceal a crowbar on his person and take it out on location?

If lime only worked faster. He could haul out a hatful of that stuff and throw it on the corpse and it would devour it—in time; but not in time to vanish it by morning, which would be the longest time he could dare leave it where it could be found.

Theodore was speculating on the comparative possibilities of a trunk, a furnace and a taxi when he fell asleep.

Back in the office next morning, he shuddered as he passed Peters, this walking, smirking hyena who was so soon to be shot down and either cremated, weighted and sent to the bottom of something, turned into limeade, or shipped, dismembered, to a foreign port.

Peters slapped him on the back and said "How's your health, Teddy?" Theodore mumbled something. In his mind he thought Peters would be much better occupied worrying about his own health, for he hadn't long to worry about it.

Gloria was looking especially spanking that morning. She had been fox-trotting until after midnight, a practise which makes girls under thirty come back with a highlight in either eye, and makes girls past thirty come back with a limp and a before-taking effect.

"Morning, Ted," she gurgled. "How's your sweetie?"

Theodore stopped short and turned sharp.

"Sweetie? Who's my sweetie, you poor egg?"

"Why—Clare. Wasn't you talking to her for an hour yesterday. It's all over the office that you're sappy over her."

"Whoever said that is batty in the dome," shot Theodore.

"What do I care for her—or for any woman?"

It looked like a great moment. Now was Gloria's chance to say "Go on, you know you're loco in the cocoa about me," or at least to disbelieve that he wasn't silly in the skoonce about Clare. But she answered:

"That's right, Ted. You're a sensible youngster. At your age you shouldn't think about the girls, at all."

She might just as well have spilled the inkwell over him.

"Oh, it isn't that," he protested. "I'm old enough, all right; but it ain't my disposition. Women mean nothing in my life."

"That's fine, Ted. When you grow up—"

He walked out on her, and sauntered up to Clare.

"Morning, Theodore R. Reed," yodeled Clare. "How's your lovey dovey?"

"Who's that?" growled Theodore.

"Why—Gloria; everybody knows that."

"Everybody's woozy in the garret. What do I care for her—or any woman?"

"Attaboy," said Clare. "You're too young to get messed up in such rot."

"Oh, it ain't that—only it ain't my disposition. Women mean nothing in my life."

"Oho—but they will when you get to be a man."

"Aw!"

And Theodore walked out on her, too.

He wouldn't have gone back to Gloria, but he had to. They worked for a while, Theodore eyeing her and Gloria whistling and humming along as she filed—her finger nails.

"It's lunch time," barked Theodore.

"I know," she sang. "I'm waiting to be called for."

Theodore came to his feet.

"Peters?" he asked, shrilly.

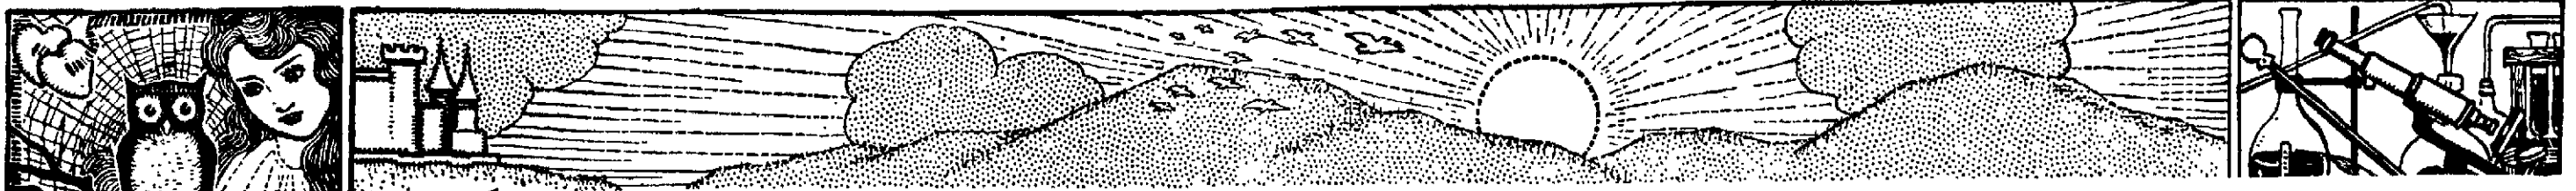

"No. I sh'd say not. That long-legged simp?"

It was either a stall, or Peters' life was saved.

"Who—then?"

"Oh, the grandest boy. You don't know him, Teddy. Him and me we used to work in the same office, in a toothpick works. We're going to be married right after Christmas."

All this was five years ago. Peters married Clare, is now head of the advertising department, and Theodore, the youngest assistant in the organization, is his chief of staff, with a stenographer of his own—and crazy about her.

BEATRICE ARRIVES WEDNESDAY FOR TURKEY DAY GAME

Nebraskans Work Out On Lawrence Field To Get Rid Of Stiffness

Rotary Club Will Entertain Both Teams Wednesday Evening—Fans Urged To Buy Tickets Up Town Before Game Time.

Preparations now are practically complete for the intercollegiate football game on Lawrence field Thursday afternoon when Appleton clashes with the high school team of Beatrice, Neb. Tickets have been placed on sale in a large number of business places, wide publicity has been given the event, merchants and professional men have promised their cooperation and the city is keenly interested in the occasion.

The Beatrice team will arrive in Appleton at 2:45 Wednesday afternoon and after a brief rest the boys will take to Lawrence field for a workout to take the stiffness out of their legs and to accustom them to the climate.

COLORED FOOTBALLER
Appleton high school griders will have a new experience Thursday when they line up against Beatrice. A colored man will be in the opposing team. The boy was a substitute last year but this season he is a regular and plays in every game. Several schools in Kansas objected to him but in Appleton he will be given every opportunity to show what he can do.

Here. Usually at this time of the year the weather is balmy at Beatrice. The visitors will require at least a little time to become acclimated. Spectators will not be permitted in Lawrence field while the Beatrice team is running through its signals and working the stiffness out of the boys' bones. The squad is expected to remain at the field until dark.

ENTERTAIN AT DINNER
Appleton Rotary club will entertain the visitors and the Appleton team at dinner at the Sherman house at 6:15. A program of skits and speeches will follow the dinner after which both teams will be hustled off to bed to get in a good night's rest before the big struggle the next day.

The kickoff of the game will be at promptly 2 o'clock. The gate of Lawrence field will be open shortly after noon to accommodate the immense crowd that is expected. Fans are urged to buy their tickets up town before the game to avoid congestion at the gate. No children's tickets will be sold at the field. The youngsters must obtain their tickets in the grade schools or at the high school.

Seats in the grandstand have been reserved at the request of hundreds of persons. These reserved seats tickets were placed on sale at the Schlitz drug store Tuesday noon.

The interest in the game in Appleton and in this entire district indicates an attendance of close to 10,000 persons if weather conditions are all favorable. It will be by all odds the most interesting scrap of the year. The immense crowd, the colors and the spirit alone are attractive and add to that a great football game and it is the "page de resistance" of the football year.

BEATRICE IS EAGER

Beatrice, like Appleton, would rather win the game on Turkey day than any other on its schedule. For that reason the Nebraska team kept many of its regulars out of the game with Lincoln last Saturday to be sure they would be in shape for Appleton. It is said the Beatrice boys have been drilled all fall on plays which will be used only in the Appleton struggle.

Much is expected Thursday afternoon from Gerou, Appleton's speedy halfback. Gerou last year made one of the prettiest tackles ever seen on the Beatrice field when he downed Beckwith, the Nebraska's fast moving back, after the latter had skirted the Appleton end and apparently was on his way to a touchdown. Gerou, playing in the secondary defense, reached Beckwith as the latter began gathering speed for his long dash. He heaved himself through the aid and caught the flying westerner around the knees, throwing him so hard that it was a minute before he regained consciousness and it was several minutes before he knew where he was. It showed up Beckwith for the remainder of the game. Gerou is not only a sure tackler but a whiz-bang on smashing the line.

JAWSON TO MEET LUKES AT OSHKOSH FIGHT RING, DEC. 8

Willingness To Mix In Last Bout With Zalice Wins Reengagement of Boxer

The Oshkosh Athletic association will stage its next big boxing show on the evening of Dec. 8 when it will again feature Joe Jawson, Milwaukee's sensational lightweight. The club marchmaker has secured an opponent for Jawson Tony Lukes, the "Durable Dane" of Milwaukee. They will box ten rounds at 135 pounds.

In Lukes, Jawson will be meeting without a doubt one of the most promising lightweights in the west and a boy that will stand up and exchange punches with his opponent. Inasmuch as this is Jawson's style of fighting this battle should be worth going a long ways to see.

Lukes has boxed a host of good boys including Tony Dennis, Ritchie Mitchell, Bobby Ward, Otto Wallace, Jack Zalice, Joe Jackson, Jack White and about eight months ago gave Jawson the hardest fight he has ever had.

Jawson made a big hit at the last show at Oshkosh by his willingness to mix things and no doubt a capacity house will greet him on his second appearance there. In the semi-final of eight rounds Jack Lang, the Oshkosh lightweight who has been coming to the front fast will engage Edie Mozart, the flashy St. Paul lightweight who made a big hit at the last show. Three other good bouts will complete the cast.

HERO

Captain Glen Carberry of the Notre Dame football team is a man of action and deeds. During the World War Carberry did his bit and saw plenty of fighting.

After serving 11 months with the A. E. F. in France, Glen Carberry was blown up with an ammunition dump and came down to spend three weeks in a hospital.

The only bad effect of this happening was a shattered eardrum. Other-wise he enjoyed the best of health and turned his efforts to law and football at Notre Dame university.

Can He Beat Joe Lynch?

CARL TREMAINE

BY BILL EVANS
Who is the leading contender for the bantamweight title? Joe Lynch is the present champion.

I nominate Carl Tremaine of Cleveland, O. for that honor. I am sure the nomination will be unanimously seconded by everyone who has ever seen that little bantam in action.

Lynch says he is ready to meet anybody in the world at 118 pounds. Jimmy Dunn, who looks after the interests of Tremaine, rises to remark that his protegee is ready, yes anxious, for such a clash.

Tremaine boasts a wonderful record. He has knocked out more opponents than any other bantam in the ring. When he goes into action fight fans get a real run for their money.

KNOCKED OUT O'DOWD
Only recently Tremaine knocked out Phil O'Dowd, one of the few bantams holding a decision over Lynch. A few months previous Lynch had lost his title to Pete Herman.

Another notable knockout scored by Tremaine was at the expense of Eddie Pinchot of Pittsburgh, who has to his credit an even break with Lynch over the 10-round route.

ROD AND REEL By Dixie Carroll

PERSONAL DUFFLE FOR WATER TRAILS

The matter of personal kit and equipment is a sort of touchy proposition. Every fellow who has made his trip into the woods by land or water trails has hoped up an outfit that he thinks is the best bet and he sticks to it until by experience he finds an article here and there that can be eliminated for something else that does the trick just a bit better than the last years favorite wrinkle. However, the first time over the route a little advance dope, old timer, will save the toting of a lot of unnecessary stuff, which means less hard work on portage or hike.

The late Richard Harding Davis once passed this out on the subject: "The same article that one declares is the most essential to his comfort, health and happiness is the very first thing that another will throw into the trail. A man's outfit is a matter which seems to touch his private honor. You may attack a man's courage, the flag he serves, the newspaper for which he works, his intelligence or his camp manners, and he will ignore you; but if you criticize his patent water bottle he will fall upon you with both fists."

For the canoe trip on stream or chain of lakes, you should have a duffle bag of waterproof canvas, and the most convenient size is one 36 inches deep with a diameter of 12 inches. This will hold all your personal kit, clothing and odds and ends, and it stacks up right for the carry on the portage. For convenience in carrying, the bag should have a handle on the side and end, and if you want to ship it as baggage have it rigged up with a chain and padlock. With everything in the duffle bag it is very easy to pack the canoe and to make camp in the evening and should you take a spill in fast water it will float around until salvaged and everything will be safe and dry.

For the usual two week's trip, one extra suit of woolen underwear besides the one worn is sufficient, and it should be woolen because this material takes up the perspiration and moisture and prevents chills, as you will not dry out quickly when over-heated, after a husky bit of portaging if you wear woolen garments next to the covering old Mother Nature gave you.

SPORTSMEN OF U. S. WILL MEET NEXT MONTH IN EAST

Announcement of the ninth national game conference of the American Game Protective association has been received by G. L. Chamberlin of this city. The gathering will be held Dec. 11 and 12 at the roof garden of Waldorf-Astoria hotel, New York, with the big annual dinner on the latter date. None of the local sportsmen are planning to attend because the meeting is at too great a distance.

Irvin Cobb, famous writer, is to be one of the principal speakers and William L. Finley's noted game pictures will be shown.

Tomorrow, at Armory G, 1:30 P. M., the Appleton High School Senior Auction. If you do not want to bid, come and look on.

EXPECT RECORD CROWD AT GREEN BAY GAME

Green Bay—With the "Booster Day" game but three days off, the ticket selling committee are in the midst of their final drive to get a record breaking crowd out to the ball park, Thanksgiving day, to see Green Bay and the famous Duluth K. C. rub elbows in a gridiron tilt.

The committee report that there is a good demand for tickets. The factory and plant workers together with the railroad shop men are doing their bit to make the game a success. In the down town district, the game is being talked of on all sides and the one pointed question is: "Have you got your Booster ticket yet?"

YOST TO BE RETAINED

Ann Arbor, Mich.—The University of Michigan's undefeated football team will make no claim to sole possession of the Western conference championship being willing to share honors with Iowa, another undefeated eleven. It was announced by Coach Fielding H. Yost on Monday.

Coach Yost will continue indefinitely as head of the Michigan football team, despite his added burden as head of the university's athletic department, he announced on Monday. He will be unable to devote much time to the squad next year, however, as was the case this season, and much of the duties will fall on the shoulders of Assistant Coach George Little, who is serving his first year in the Maize and Blue coaching department.

DRILL HARD FOR BASKETBALL GAME

Neenah—With but a few days before their opening game of the season, Twin City Boosters, American legion aggregation, 1921-1922, champions are putting in some stiff practice to effect the strongest possible form.

Appleton quint, formerly of the Central Wisconsin league, will oppose the Boosters in the opening tilt and will provide the stiffest kind of opposition, being represented by a lineup among the strongest in Badger professional caging circles.

The Boosters squad is being driven through long and grueling workouts, according to the announcement of the management Tuesday, before the initial game Thanksgiving night at S. A. Cook armory, and the lineup that will start the contest in Boosters colors will not be selected before probably Tuesday or Wednesday. Suffice to say that the combination will be the strongest possible and one that should give the Hilly City tribe all the opposition they can handle.

In addition to the approaching game continues to ripen and there is every indication that a record breaking crowd will turn out. Dancing will follow the game.

RIPON RIFLEMEN TO DEFEND SIXTH CORPS AREA TITLE

Ripon, Wis.—In rifle competition this year Ripon college has a title of holding her sixth corps area title won last year. The interclass shoot for men will take place shortly after Christmas. From those taking part in this contest the college rifle team will be chosen. It is rumored that the heavy practice the freshmen are putting in is going to make them formidable competitors of the upper classmen unless the latter redouble their efforts.

COACH "DOC"

DR. BOLES ROSENTHAL

It's mighty handy to have a line coach who is also a "bone setter." The University of California team has an "M. D." with a football hobby on the job.

He's Dr. Boles Rosenthal. Before he won his "M. D." he had taken all sorts of letters as a football star, and the game never quite got out of his blood.

Although he's consulting physician at the Oakland hospital, about the time the football season starts he's out in uniform coaching the line.

He insists on attending all the fractures and broken bones and other wounds of the players.

Rhodes of Green Bay will referee.

BIG TEN CHIEFS TO MEET FRIDAY

Schedule for Western Conference Sports To Be Drawn Up At Chicago

Columbus, O.—Schedule makers of the Western conference will meet in Chicago on Dec. 1 and 2 to arrange football, basketball, track and minor sports dates for another year, according to announcement made here by L. W. St. John of Ohio State university, chairman of the athletic directors of the Big Ten.

Director St. John, Assistant Director G. M. Trautman, Football Coach Dr. J. W. Wilce and Basketball Coach H. G. Olsen will represent Ohio state along with Prof. Thomas E. French, chairman of Western conference faculty representatives, who will meet in joint session with the athletic directors on the night of Dec. 1. Headquarters will be established in the Auditorium hotel.

Among other things the directors will attempt to put baseball on a better basis, through closer organization of the coaches designed to facilitate handling of problems involving appointment of officials and playing off of postponed games.

BRINGING UP FATHER

many today, if prevailing wage standards can be taken as a criterion. Ordinary laborers receive an average of about 100 marks an hour. (The present rate of exchange gives 47 marks for one American cent.) Wages for an 8-hour day range from 400 to 1,200 marks, making a monthly pay-check of approximately 9,000 to 31,200. An agreement has been effected whereby shoemakers and cabinetmakers receive from 67 1/2 to 116.55 marks an hour. The trunk-makers have been striking for an hourly wage of 100 marks.

$3.19 A MONTH

In September the salaries of German newspaper editors were fixed by agreement to range from 15,000 to 21,000, (translated into American money, 15,000 marks amounts to $3.19). A scale was adopted providing that newspapermen receive 15,000 marks a month if they are in their first year at the business, 16,300 in the second year, and so on up to 21,500 for a man of eight years' experience. "String" news pays at the rate of 1.60 to 2.75 marks a line, according to its nature. Reporters get 70 marks for small notices, 135 for reports of meetings, and 125 for investigations. Articles by critics are paid for at the rate of 275 marks each. A man who works on Sunday gets 500 marks for the day.

Even such wages are acceptable among the journalists of the capital, for high costs are rapidly thinning the ranks of newspaper men and many employees are being thrown out of work. The situation has reached such a pass that a movement is under way among conservative publishers to establish a fund to aid unemployed newspapermen, the leaders being actuated by political as well as humanitarian motives. Since they fear much good talent among the writers will drift to the radical press, the managers of three large theaters in Berlin have announced their houses may have to close because of the wage demands of the stage help. Actors and actresses until recently received a minimum wage of 7,500 marks a month. Now that this has been raised to 22,000 marks, the stage hands are demanding a minimum wage of 24,000 marks monthly.

DOCTORS ARE HIT

The distress in the medical profession has been repeatedly emphasized, and many doctors throughout Germany have commenced bartering their services for produce. Cases have been reported in Berlin in which physicians found the income from their practice so low that they have taken on evening work as musicians in moving picture theaters.

When the board which examines candidates for college teachers' positions recently was called to assemble at Litchfield, a Berlin suburb, the members protested that the earnings amounted to more than their pay. They asked for 50 marks an hour, but continue to receive only 2.50. Even this is more than three times the 1.20 marks an hour which a student teacher draws in Berlin today. Regular teachers are said to receive a much higher salary, the public schools providing perhaps the outstanding instance of salaries for intellectual workers which compare favorably with those of manual laborers. An unmarried teacher's yearly wages, with expense allowances, amounts to 313,064 marks, while one who is married gets an additional 2,500 marks for his wife and 23,310 for each child.

A case recently was reported of a professor drawing approximately 12,000 marks a month. An American pays 2,000 marks more than this every day for a hotel room, with bath, facing on Unter den Linden. Four moderate diners easily spend this on drinks and food at an sitting in a first class Berlin cafe.

SHIP BILL FOES HIT FUND MEASURE

Washington—Opponents of the administration shipping bill, which is nearing a final vote in the house, centered their attack at the outset of Tuesday's session on the provision creating a merchant marine fund for the payment of direct government aid to American ship owners. Representative Davis, Tennessee, contended that if a subsidy was to be paid it should be met annually by appropriations so that the country would know exactly how much the law is costing.

"This provision is camouflaged," he declared, "and is inserted to mislead the public as to the cost of subsidy." Republican members of the merchant marine committee which framed the bill defended the fund provision. Representative Kirkpatrick, Pennsylvania, asserting it was the most vital section in the measure. During the discussion on the Davis amendment, Representative Fear of Wisconsin proposed that no part of the $125,000,000 fund to be created by the bill for loans to American shipbuilding companies, should be expended until congress reenacted the excess profits tax. The proposal was thrown out on a point of order by Representative Edmonds, republican, Pennsylvania.

INSULT WAITRESSES; FLEE WHEN COPS ARE SUMMONED

Five young men under the influence of liquor entered Fox River restaurant on College-ave shortly after 9 o'clock Saturday night when the two waitresses were alone and became boisterous and insulting. When requested to conduct themselves quietly one of the callers struck the waitress making the request. She ran into M. Belzer's fruit stand for assistance and when Mr. Belzer attempted to telephone the police station they prevented him from doing so. Finally he got in communication with the officers from his own store, but before they arrived the strangers disappeared.

Kharkov, Russia—The Ukraine soviet government has been making strenuous efforts to break up the practice of graft and bribery among state employees, and in this connection a trial ended recently in which two accused principals, M. Melensky, director of the state trading department and his agent, Bakhmoutsky, were sentenced to be shot.

The prosecution charged that Melensky and Bakhmoutsky by an ingenious and extensive system of bribery and graft in disposing of state timber from one government department to another, had cleaned up some 20,000,000,000 soviet roubles, amounting at the time to about $50,000.

IF SKIN BREAKS OUT AND ITCHES APPLY SULPHUR

Just the moment you apply Mentho-Sulphur to an itching, burning or broken out skin, the itching stops and healing begins, says a noted skin specialist. This sulphur preparation, made into a pleasant cold cream, gives such a quick relief, even to fiery eczema, that nothing has ever been found to take its place.

Because of its germ destroying properties, it quickly subdues the itching, cools the irritation and heals the eczema right up, leaving a clear, smooth skin in place of ugly, rash, pimples or roughness.
